Today is the 48th anniversary of the Oil Spill when two Standard Oil tankers collided in the San Francisco Bay on January 18, 1971.

It ended the life of innumerable birds, even though countless young people flocked to the beaches of the Bay Area to clean them, mostly to no avail.

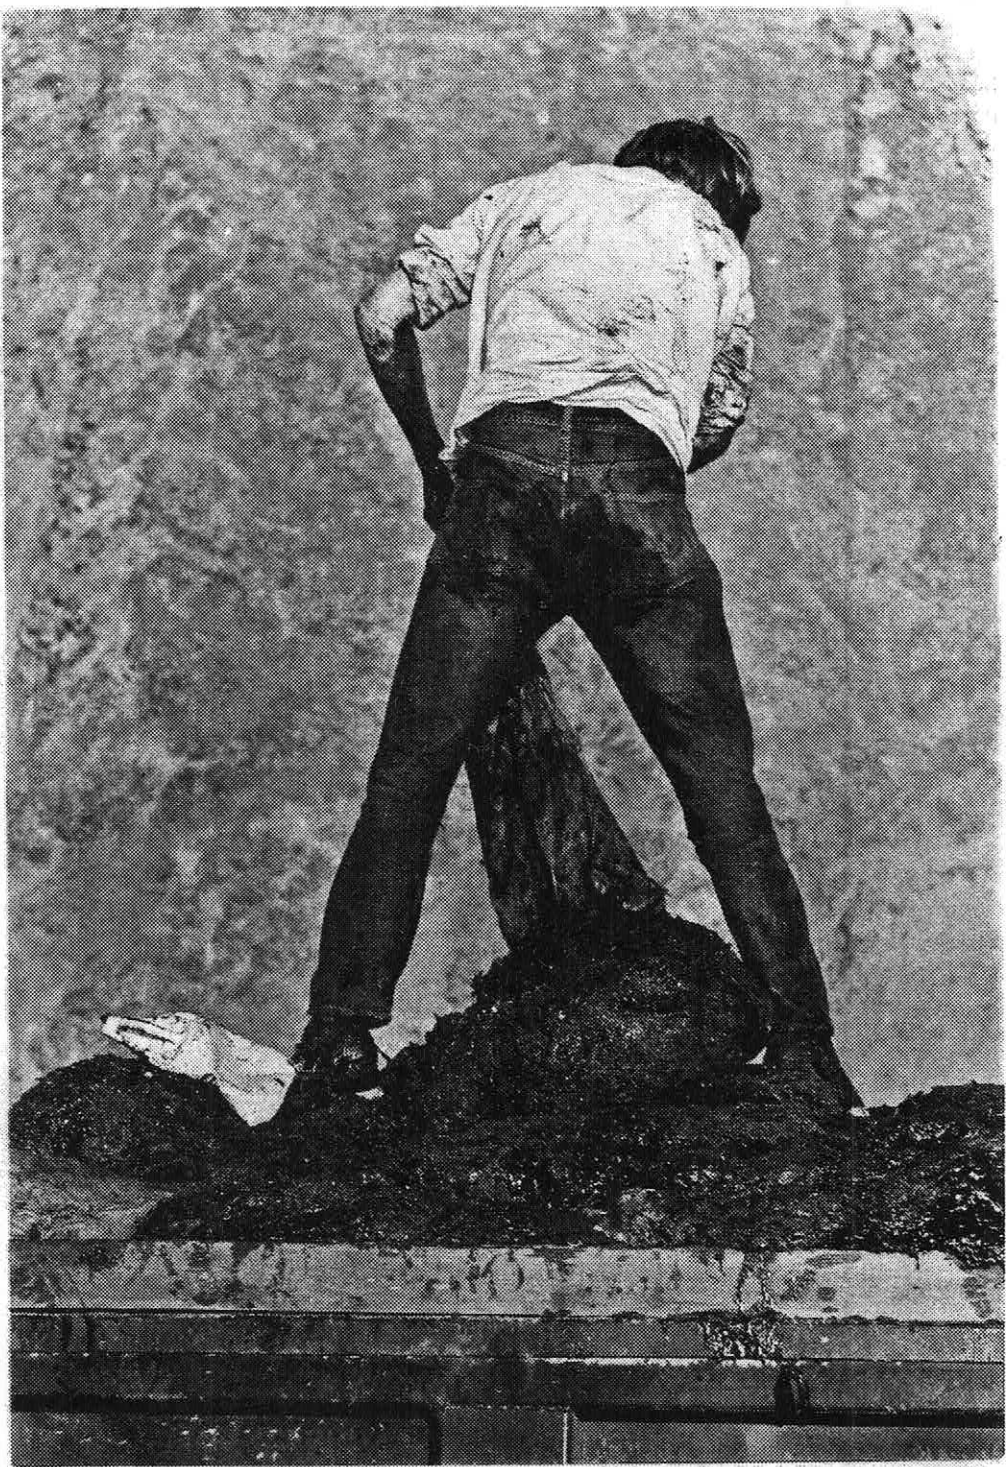

There were many volunteers and Standard Oil workers in Stinson and Bolinas. Some of the young people moved here later.

I was in Europe with my family on the day of the Oil Spill, but on Jan. 21, Orville and I went to RCA where a road was cut to the beach so trucks could load the large clumps of oil.

I photographed Orville picking up oil. One clump was actually a dead grebe covered in straw and oil. Orville held it up against the sky and I took the picture. It became a testament to our destruction of the environment.

Only a few months ago did I look at the other negatives and saw the young people working with all their might. Here are some of them.

Per Jenny's experience with rodents causing so much damage to her Prius, Mouse Magic Repels Mice (all natural ingredients). I have used it in my car for years. You put the little packages in your engine and glove compartment and change them periodically. You can purchase Mouse Magic at Pt. Reyes hardware store.

Thank you Jenny for taking all those supplies to Mexico!! BorderAngels and Annunciation House in El Paso are great places to donate to the immigrants at the border, they give directly to the immigrants.

Dear friends of the BCLT,

We'd like to thank everyone who has supported us this last year. To our donors, members, sponsors volunteers and new friends, it was a big year and we couldn't have done it without you! Our end of the year ask letter brought in over $17,000. In 2019 you will see new pumps at the gas station, a new and improved BCLT website, and fresh paint on the Gibson house as well as freshening up of 6 Wharf.

Evie Wilhelm has returned from maternity leave and Leilani Fraser will be staying on as our new office manager.

On March 23rd we will be hosting a community meeting at the community center to bring you all up to date on our current projects and some new ones that have been added to our roster.

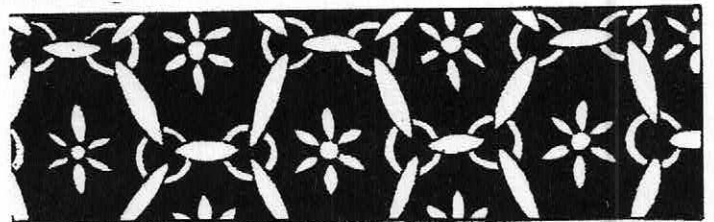

Please keep on the lookout for upcoming events as well! March 2nd will be our second HOME event and May 18th the second BCLT fundraiser at the Peace Barn.

We are so happy to be YOUR Community Land Trust and are looking forward to working with you and for you in 2019!

Happy New Year to you and yours and again, thank you for your support and generosity, you are helping to preserve your community and we are honored to work for you.

With all our love,

Your BCLT Team

*Caring for one another is our village at its best.
It's Mimi who needs us now ...*

Our Beloved Mimi Calpestri, Therapist, Dream Teacher, Spirit Woman, Great-Grandmother, and active community member for many years, now needs our support and care.

Admitted to Petaluma Valley Hospital January 2nd with pneumonia, she spent ten days there before they also discovered a heart condition. She's since been in a Skilled Nursing Facility for the past week, and very much wants to come home!!!!

We want to make that happen, but need financial support in order to supplement her home nursing care. We also need folks from the community to step forward and offer whatever time and skills they are able.

Please contribute if you can! You can do so through the GoFundMe page we've set up gofundme.com/mimihome. You could also send a check to: Angela Calpestri, PO Box 752, Bolinas, or give a cash donation to Jesse at the People's Store (Tues. mornings or Sunday afternoons).

And, if you're able to offer your time for caregiving, help with meals, light housekeeping, etc, please contact me at my email address: learnheart@sbcglobal.net

Her daughter Angie and I will be setting up a schedule, so let me know your phone number, how you can help, and whether you are available morning, midday, or evening.

Thank you!!!!

Big Love,

ENERGY ACTIVATION CLASS
this Sunday (20th) and Next (27th) 10- 11:15 am

FREE TO ALL

Suitable for all too — not just those in their Wisdom years!

Chinese sages figured out that the way to be happy and healthy is to have one's qi (subtle energy inside body) flowing freely. Blockages cause dis-ease, both emotional and physical.

So, if you want less suffering in life, whatever age you are, this is for you!

To help you understand how this energy practice works, I wrote this short essay (based on information in a wonderful book, "The Living Universe", by Duane Elgin.

He bases the book on science — the work of many physicists, including David Bohm, John Wheeler, Sir James Jeans, Brian Swimme, Freeman Dyson, Max Born and Max Planck, developer of quantum theory and winner of the Nobel Prize, who said that "Consciousness is fundamental. Matter as a derivative of consciousness. We cannot get behind consciousness."

THE LIVING UNIVERSE AND YOUR PART IN CREATING REALITY

Consciousness is a living field of life energy that permeates the whole universe, creating a single, undivided whole, a hologram.

Every part of the universe contains the information of the whole and the parts are communicating with each other.

We are all members of one body.

The unity of the universe destroys the concept of the world as "sitting out there" with us as a separate independent observer. We are participants, co-creating reality moment to moment.

The Big Bang was not a one-time event. It is ongoing. Creation is a continuous process, sustained by a flow-through of stupendous amounts of this life energy.

Objects made of matter look solid — our bodies for example. The space between objects looks like a vacuum, but both are infused with the all-sustaining life-force, vibrating in a wild dance

It's an undivided wholeness in flowing movement.

As we are participating in that flow, we can affect it.

This wholeness is in us and all around us, without division into inner and outer. This means we can transform not only what's going on inside us, physically, emotionally and mentally, we can also transform the world and the entire universe.

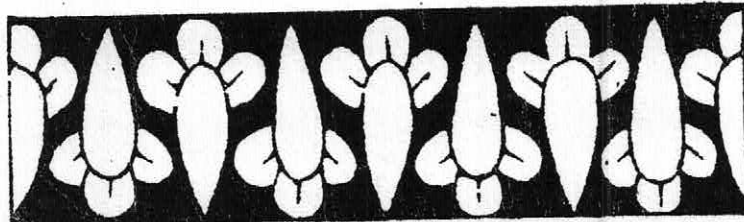

Knowing this conceptually is one thing. Feeling and embodying it is another — because we've identified with the body. We've believed the body's destiny — eventual death — is our destiny.

This is where this form of qigong is so helpful.

Our limiting belief in separation and time and space and death is information that structures the field of our bodies and is the cause of suffering and unhappiness.

This practice connects us to the infinite, ever-present field of the universe, and dissolves those limiting beliefs

As we dissolve this information, we relax and we naturally become more compassionate. With the felt sense of infinite connection with all existence, comes a deep desire to serve the awakening of all beings.

As we wake up to who we are, we no longer experience ourselves IN the universe, we experience ourselves AS the universe, beyond birth and death, undamageable, infinite, ever-present, luminous beingness,

SHACK SHOW
SATURDAY 1/19 5-7P

HAPPY HOUR HANG

G O S P E L F L A T
F A R M S T A N D
A R T S P A C E

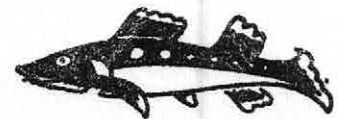

I hope you will come join me at the Shack Show at Gospel Flat Farmstand Artspace tomorrow, Saturday 1/19 from 5-7pm.

My friend, and renown poet Austin Smith is in town, and I have invited him to read from his new book Flyover Country, a powerful collection of poems which link rural American Midwest life with American foreign policy.

As the back of the book says, these poems are "about violence: the violence we do to the land, to animals, to refugees, to the people of distant countries, and to one another." Sounds heavy, I know, but Austin's poems are also full of beauty, tenderness and even humor.

I have a show of driftwood shacks on glass on display in the stand, and, to kick things off and settle the rowdy crowd, I'll share a few of my thoughts about shacks and sing a few of my songs. There will be snacks and free cheap wine.

See you there- Jeff Manson

Right Idea Wrong Place

Dear BCPUD Directors:

I am writing to voice my concerns about the proposed community housing projects on Overlook and the Aspen lots off Alder Road, and specifically the infringement of environmental and density guidelines within Bolinas Planning documents.

This is an ill precedent. While a given individual may not respect -- or even know of our community plans -- I would expect that a collective with the name Bolinas Community Land Trust would closely follow environmental guidance as set forth in The Bolinas Community Plan.

As a resident since 1963, I have closely witnessed and contributed toward successfully defending and defining Bolinas as the socially and environmentally progressive community that we take great pride in. If we don't remember these histories, perhaps we should re-learn them. The point is that "Bolinas" didn't just happen, it was staunchly defended, and in so doing, simultaneously conceived.

There were many milestones along that way: defeating Lagoon Development, stopping Redwood logging on the headwaters of Pine Gulch Creek, the Lagoon Advisory Council, the water Moratorium, the Sewer, oil spills, Beach Project, the defense of 10x12's' and small living units as low cost housing, tourists, firehouses, schools, Mesa Park, health clinic, Euc trees, preservation of open space, bike paths, Terrace Avenue preservation...ever more tourists...parking...and on it goes.

These issues and many more were, and are, handled with equal measures of Social and Environmental concern and responsibility. And the major reason for that remarkable balance was the Bolinas Community Plan, an unusually inspired governing document that truly embodies the best intentions for us and the shared habitat in which we live. No written tract expresses our core beliefs and philosophical antecedents more finely than this. And most certainly included is a heightened concern for egalitarian housing.

I am an absolute proponent for the acquisition and development of Low-Income Housing to provide for our community -- but I see no reason to violate the spirit of our town's most central and self-identifying documents to do so. Additionally, I have concerns that in our rush to take care of a portion of ourselves, we endanger the Moratorium, and thusly all of us and spirit of Bolinas itself.

The late Peter Warshall, ecologist and cultural anthropologist (note the combination of these disciplines) was among our most visionary community leaders and one of many contributors to the Community and Mesa Plans. Peter was genuinely open and easily knowable, an unusual and wonderful trait. It's a gift that makes him easy to "channel," if I may use that concept.

If asked now, he'd say: "Yes, we must provide housing. And yes, some building. That building should be done by locals, for locals, and as much as possible with local financing. And the sites should be on environmentally compromised land. That's at least two birds with one stone!" Peter would reply with a laugh.

Unerringly, Peter would point out that this is a chance to provide jobs and homes to encourage and preserve a diverse, creative, and vibrant community. But at the same time, restoring environmentally degraded lands and lessening fire danger as a condition and by-product of that building. These sort of simple but intelligent concepts --revolutionary at the time--are what deeply define and illuminate the Bolinas Community Plans. And by extension, us.

Finally, the proposed development at the Aspen lots is not only non-conforming to our traditions and ideals, it is cruel. And I would know. That neighborhood of more than 40 years has been one of the most stable in all Bolinas. Once young, they have grown elderly together with a shared concern for each other and the habitat they have encouraged and live within.

I've known them that whole time, and some of them more than 50 years. This micro-community and its people are ours, and we have become theirs. That's what community is all about, and it takes time to get there.

As such, they and their shared habitat are the absolute embodiment and grace of the Bolinas Community Plan and the grounding of our philosophy. I consider it grievous and irresponsible to force this development upon them without consent.

There are less damaging and more creative ways to site desperately needed affordable housing for our community. Like any worker who truly knows their craft, Bolinas knows that what is easiest isn't always best. Beyond all, that's what our history has shown us.

Thanks for listening. Rudi Ferris

White Owl Flies Into and Out of the Field

Coming down
 out of the freezing sky
 with its depths of light,
 like an angel,
 or a buddha with wings,
 it was beautiful
 and accurate,
 striking the snow and whatever was there with a force that left the imprint of the tips of its wings—
 five feet apart—and the grabbing thrust of its feet,
 and the indentation of what had been running through the white valleys of the snow—

and then it rose, gracefully,
 and flew back to the frozen marshes,
 to lurk there,
 like a little lighthouse,
 in the blue shadows—
 so I thought:
 maybe death
 isn't darkness, after all,
 but so much light
 wrapping itself around us—
 as soft as feathers—
 that we are instantly weary
 of looking, and looking, and shut our eyes,
 not without amazement,
 and let ourselves be carried,
 as through the translucence of mica,
 to the river
 that is without the least dapple or shadow—that is nothing but light—scalding, aortal light—in which we are washed and washed out of our bones.

The Bestest Library...

I just want to thank our Bolinas Library for being it's enlivening, reading, breathing, centered self so very wonderfully!

Last night our monthly Community Center Board meeting was held there, and it gladdened me like all get out to feel how many folks showed up to support the Center, and all it does in helping keep the heart of this community beating strong.

That well played hour and a half segued seamlessly into the next gathering, come to hear a reading by Eric Karpeles, from his new book about the painter Jozef Czapski. (But first we all surprised Jane by serenading her with the Bolinas Birthday Song, palpably heartfelt!)

The story of Czapski's life was so fitting to hear in this parallel time of force and change. He was a man who wanted to know how he could be a better person. And how to pay attention to "almost nothing" being everything that matters. I loved that at the end of his life, when he was blind, his daily drawings became simple lines. The doing of them was what mattered, it connected him to what was real, the golden thread he had followed all his life, and, to that end, he "held the line".

Thank you to everyone as we keep beloved traditions alive, and treasured institutions going, and we do it by showing up and holding it together. Bolinas.

SOUP SATURDAY NEEDS HELP

Do you like to cook? Do you helping others and building community spirit? Do you like good conversation and good company? If you answered "yes," to any of these, we are looking for people to help at our monthly Soup Saturday luncheons, served in the garden at St. Aidan's, 30 Brighton Avenue. To be a soup-chef, all you need to do is make a pot of soup, arrive at 11:30 am, and help with light set up and clean up. If needed, we can give you Community Service hours.

Soup Saturdays happen the second Saturday of every month. Next one will be February 9. We serve between Noon and 2 or until all our pots are empty.
