My sister, Janet Evelyn Edwards Mattingly, passed away at her home in Bolinas California on December 4, 2017. She was 73.

Janet had been in declining health for many years, and after major surgery in March 2017, she never fully recovered. Her outer world over the past ten months became increasingly smaller, as she found it difficult to keep up with friends and even harder to spend almost any time away from the little home she had lived in since 1990.

Her inner world however, remained rich, and she often commented to me, other family members and close friends, of her abiding love for music, singing, laughter, the lush pink Cecile Brunner rose bush outside her front door which in our family we always called "baby roses", and the many birds, animals and insects who made her yard their home. And of course, anyone who knew Janet well, knew that her kitties remained, to the very end, the great loves of her life.

Janet was a unique (a word used by almost everyone who knew her) spirited little girl, who grew into a unique, complex, compassionate woman with an off-the-wall sense of humor. She was curious about everything, and her eclectic interests ranged from Sufi poetry to the latest scientific and medical discoveries, the sex life of snails, and everything in between. The natural world, including her beloved Pacific Ocean, always offered her solace and joy. She was a voracious reader, and a remarkably good artist whose pen and ink sketches of animals (predominately cats, sheep and the occasional frog) were often included in her daily journal pages.

Janet worked in San Francisco to help found the Fort Mason Center for Arts and Culture back in its infancy in the 70's. She also worked for a while at the Marin Humane Society as an animal advocate, going to the local schools, where she educated young people about compassionate animal care.

The Bolinas community and the friends Janet made there during her nearly 30 years in her little home by the sea, became her second family. She cherished those friendships, and delighted in them even when she was no longer able to participate in the life of this unique community.

Every Christmas I gave Janet a panda bear calendar, pandas being another of her favorite animals, but Christmas 2016, which of course none of us knew would be her last, I gave her a stuffed panda and a beautifully illustrated children's picture book including wonderful panda paintings. The title, "Wherever You Are, My Love Will Find You" rang true then, and continues to ring true for her family and friends.

Janet is survived by her sister Marilyn, her nephew Chris, her nieces Michelle and Jennifer, her great-nieces Eryn and Carmen, many dear friends, and last, but not least, her beloved kitty, Twinkle.

"Faces of Resistance"

On our way home the day after Thanksgiving, Don and I had the opportunity to visit the New Museum of Los Gatos, to view the exhibit of Ilka Hartmann's photos, "Faces of Resistance". For many years we've been aware of her extraordinary eye for the faces of history, having seen examples of her work in books, magazines, and smaller exhibits in Marin and San Francisco. Ilka is one of those rare photographers who can convey a critical moment through a human portrait. However, we'd never seen a large display of her work--her art--until that day.

The exhibit is arranged by event and spans the latter half of the 20th century: the Anti-War movement; the Black Power and Native American movements; Gay rights; Farm workers rights, and more. By walking through each area, we're given an insider's view of the people and events that shifted our country's viewpoint out of complacency and into the 21st century. While Ilka's photographs are focused on the Bay Area, they echo shifts occurring throughout the US from the late 1960s to the late 1980s.

The exhibit will remain open until July 2018. I hope that many of you can include a visit if you're in the San Jose area. It's a rare opportunity to see more deeply into a time that shaped our consciousness today.

The New Museum of Los Gatos (106 East Main Street, Los Gatos, 95030) is open from 11-5 Wednesday through Sunday.

Ernesto Sanchez and WINTER SPIRIT

Hello everyone. I am writing about my newest piece, Winter Spirit, now on display in the Bolinas Post Office. This sculpture is part of the "Spirits of the Underworld" series, which I have been working on since January of 2017. "Spirits of the Underworld" is my own exploration and artistic expression of the spirits you might encounter as guides or challengers if you were to journey in the Underworld. This piece, Winter Spirit, is a benevolent, joyous spirit that represents an enchanting time when the night sky is clear and spangled with stars, the air is crisp, and visions of sugarplums, candles, elves and twinkly lights dance in our heads. With its sparkly eyes and joyful demeanor, this spirit is a manifestation of the energy of the season.

For those who do not know me I was an active part of the Bolinas art world for decades, first performing with Piero Resta and Circo del Sol in the early 70's, then creating numerous public art events in town during the 80's, 90's, and early 2000's. Also, as a solo performer during these years, I traveled the world performing and collaborating with artists in Asia, Mexico, Europe, and here in the U.S. Bolinas has always been a nurturing and creative place and my memories of having lived here are deep in my heart.

It is a pleasure to share with you this new piece of art. If you would like to see more of the "Spirits of the Underworld" series, please visit my art studio in downtown Pt Reyes Station or the Wu Wei Tea Temple in Fairfax, where many of my "Spirits" are on display. Thanks,

Ernesto Sanchez - ernestostudio@gmail.com

Hey Friends! Another bit of good news along with Roy Moore's defeat in Alabama. Finally, After a lawsuit by Dr. Joel Moskowitz and determined activism (we, EON, took part and produced a video that got thousands of views re the issue) the California Dept. of Public Health did the right thing and issued a public warning about cell phone radiation. See the below press release.... and article from ABC and the FresnoBee.

California Issues Cell Phone Radiation Warnings
Electromagnetic Radiation Safety

December 13, 2017

Today the California Department of Public Health (CDPH) issued a press release to announce their long-awaited cell phone warning document. The document forewarns the public about health risks from exposure to cell phone radiation and provides tips on how to reduce exposure.

This document originally prepared in 2009 by health professionals within the CDPH Division of Environmental and Occupational Disease Control underwent numerous revisions but was never published by CDPH until now.

In March of this year, the Sacramento Superior Court ordered the CDPH to release the draft documents to Dr. Joel Moskowitz, the plaintiff in a law suit filed under the California Public Records Act by the Environmental Law Clinic at UC Berkeley Law and the First Amendment Project.

To comply with the court order, CDPH released 27 versions of the document and reimbursed legal expenses. The most recent draft, dated January, 2015, contained a bold watermark, "Draft and Not for Public Release" and a footnote, "Document released pursuant to Moskowitz v. CDPH, Sac. Super. Ct. No. 34-2016-80002358."

In July, the California Brain Tumor Association held a demonstration in Sacramento outside of CDPH to call for the public release of the cell phone warning document.

The safety recommendations in the document released today by CDPH are similar to those issued by the Connecticut Department of Public Health in May, 2015.

The preponderance of the research indicates that cell phone radiation poses a major risk to health. The recommendations of state and federal health agencies have not kept up with the research. The Federal Communications Commission, the agency responsible for regulating cell phones, relies on industry-generated guidance that is two decades old.

More than 230 scientists who have published peer-reviewed research on electromagnetic fields and health have signed a petition calling on all nations to adopt stronger regulations and disclosure to the public about the health risks of electromagnetic fields.

For the history of this document and the public records lawsuit see <http://bit.ly/CDPHsafer>.
