DI-FI-FINGLAND

Well, if the hush that has fallen over the Hearsay office this morning is any indication, we've entered that most wonderfully dull, quiet time of the year: the mid-Winter slump. Time to turn inward & sit quiet, wait for the rain & the sudden rush of Bolinas spring.

Hard to imagine that just last week we had a steady flurry of event listings, travel pics, advertisements, strange police blotter items, rants & raves to paste up. Man, I could hardly squeeze it all in. Not so today. There's a lot of empty space up here. Kinda nice. I've got some elbow room. I swear I actually heard a pin (well, thumbtack) drop a few minutes ago. Quiet quiet.

I guess most of our local reporters (aka YOU) are laying low & nursing holiday hangovers of one type or another; I know I am. In fact, both the Light & the Citizen took this week off it seems.

Now, this is not to say that there isn't any thing to report in this small corner or our complex, chaotic world. The payphone in front of John's store is gone, receiver yanked out & replaced with tinsel & ribbons. There was a tussle down end of wharf. There will be a slide-show coming up at the Bolinas Community Center. Our hills & creeks & everywhere are dry dry dry, thanks to our extended drought. I walked out along Pine Gulch creek recently & it was just a trickle & all the pickle weed in the lagoon is dead & brown. Are we due for mandatory water rationing yet?

Anyhow, certainly, looking forward to doing a bit of that usual inward introspection as 2013 winds to a close. Reflections, predictions?

Stay Cozy, Enjoy the Slump,

Jeff Manson, Fri. Ed.

READING TO JOHN

On Tues. 12/31 at 10 am on KWMR (89.9) I'll read more from Rhiannon's book, which celebrates the spirit of improvisation (a skill which will see us into the new year—and every year, I believe.) We'll travel to Bosnia, down the Grand Canyon, to British Columbia and the Sierras with her and learn more about the time she lived in Pt. Reyes and her current sweet setup in Hawaii. I'll finish with reviews.

Amelia is here for Christmas from Botswana, Africa. We put up a sign welcoming her home from the Peace Corps down at the community "bulletin board" at Olema Bolinas Rd and Horseshoe Hill Rd. She was really surprised. Amelia spent two years in the Peace Corps in Shoshong, a small village in Botswana doing HIV-AIDS community capacity building. She loved working with the teenagers. I visited her in October 2012 and Charlie and I went to Botswana in June of this year. It's an incredible country.

While we were hanging the sign, Angie drove by and stopped to ask what we were doing. When we told her, she was excited for us. It was cool. Many folks slowed down that night and their headlights along with the moon helped us secure the sign. We are so happy to have Amelia home for Christmas. First time visiting us since we moved to Bolinas in July 2012. She is now working in Botswana for CIEE.org which supports college students during their study abroad. Amelia heads to RI and NYC on Friday and then to Bali for her friend Rachel's wedding then back to Botswana. It's been a great visit.

Merry Christmas to all,
Ayn Plant

Last Monday's, Dec. 23's Hearsay, I sent a poem called "Question", into the paper, the first line of which read (in the misprint!) "What makes a sparkif?" Not much! When it is supposed to read, "What makes a sparkle? (The fire within the look of certain eyes)". Just wanted to clarify the essential meaning of the poem!

Wishing you joy, light, friendship, Love, contentment and all good things in the coming new year.

We are nesting now it's winter and I finally got safety glass in the giant windows next to the bathtub. Just finished staining all the redwood. So you won't find me naked in the tub with bleeding arteries from glass because a bird crashed through the window or something. Another image that you can disregard. I'm really happy it's so much warmer. Now it is not like going outside.

I am pretty much in lock down working for a show at Gallery Route One. The opening is March 30. More later. I'm content and lucky as so many around the world are not.

I did go to the Bolinas fire station to see Jo Menell and his film of Mandela. It covered six years before the election. I think it is still beautiful and great to see especially now. I asked him what it was like in South Africa now and he said it's difficult and there's a lot of people having a really hard time. I was just thinking how lucky we really are in lots of areas and instead of doing any kind of holiday presents these are some things I think worthy of support. The TV show from South Africa called Street talk with a film series aims to counter prejudice and promote a more tolerant society, Jo Menell (Director) and coming up is Sex talk because people have to talk about it with the AIDS epidemic etc. Check out www.streettalktv.com Another friend, Lily Yoseph www.tangiblehope.org/ whose foundation is committed to empowering and protecting young girls and women to break the cycle of violence in Ethiopia. Supporting 50 girls in school they started. Sponsors give $300 a year to give a girl school, medical, school clothes, and some food for her family/ Any amount is welcome.

I also donate to the Homeless Prenatal Program in SF www.homelessprenatal.org/ Since 2006, HPP has ended homelessness for over 2,650 families. and the Seva Foundation: A Solution in Sight www.seva.org/ a leading innovator in the delivery of vital eye care services to the worlds most vulnerable including women, children www.seva.org/ To get more local there's Food For Families which weekly prepares and delivers healthy great meals for ill or needy Bolinas/Stinson folks. Volunteers are at the Coast Cafe Monday cooking it up. I helped them thanksgiving it was fun and rewarding. Folks can drop a check by coast or call Pat Dickens at 868-2446

I also saw the David Hockney show at the De Young. it is really amazing. This is what I learned paint faster seriously free. Orange and green really good together and hookers green isn't as bad as I think. The amazing thing is what he did on the computer honestly it was brilliant ART. Further away is vaguer like we knew. It is ok to paint yourself. Seeing art is inspiring as in breath in. There is so much creating going on.

The auction to benefit Jings family and other local connection in the Phillipines was a great success thanks to Judy , Dale , Ilke and Bobolicious. Way to go! . Here is something cool 2 folks that volunteer at food for Families won something in the raffle.
