& You: Everyone is a Reporter

Dear Community:

This is to inform those of you who were present at the quarterly meeting of the BCLT on March 5th about the status of the Lauff Ranch Road project. The hope of this project was to provide an opportunity for families and that do not qualify for federally funded housing to be able to purchase homes and remain long-term Bolinas residents.

Unfortunately, due to the federal funds we have invested in our existing properties, we are not eligible for the loans that would have made the project possible. The BCLT has decided to table this project to focus our efforts towards other opportunities.

The Lauff Ranch Road property consists of three single family dwellings and was slated to be deed restricted-middle income workforce housing, owned by residents through a co-op structure. The potential still remains for this to happen. Should anyone like more information on the details of this project or have any suggestions for funding please call or visit.

BCLT Office: 6 Wharf Rd. (BoGas)

Phone: 8880

Hours: M,T, W, Th 10am-2pm

Yours,

Arianne Dar

A MESSAGE ABOUT PARKING AT THE FIREHOUSE AND CLINIC

This time of year is so much fun at the firehouse, seeing all of the kids and parents showing up for baseball practice and games. The soccer field is being used more than ever for games and general cavorting. It always reminds me of when my kids were small and playing, having such a great time at Mesa Park. Unfortunately, many parents are parking in the firehouse and clinic parking lot during this time. Whether it is during business hours or after, the parking lot is needed for the public meeting space at the firehouse and for patients at the clinic. Many of our visitors and patients are elderly and cannot walk from the Mesa Park parking lot over to our buildings. The meeting room is used by a wide variety of community groups at all times of the week, not just business hours.

It has become such a problem recently, we have put up signs at the entrance to the firehouse and clinic parking lot, very hard to miss, asking Mesa Park users to please park in the Mesa Park lot. It has worked a bit but we still have people parking here and walking out to the fields. Likely, they pull in thinking there is plenty of room, not aware of a meeting that may be scheduled. This is just a gentle nudge to please try and remember to park at the Mesa Park lot when visiting the fields, it really is not that much further of a walk. We appreciate your understanding and help with keeping the firehouse and clinic parking lot open for use by visitors and patients to our facilities.

Thanks very much,
Anita Tyrrell-Brown, Chief

Dear Friends,

Bolinas Museum is joining in the nationwide celebration of the 50th anniversary of the "Summer of Love" with multiple exhibitions inspired by the creativity of the times and WE NEED YOUR HELP.

What do you have from the 1960s & 70s? Decorated jeans or other hand crafted garments? Photos, memorabilia, publications, posters or artifacts? This place was alive with makers. Look in your closets and trunks!

The 1960s and 1970s counter-culture, political activism, and idealism explosion also manifested in unbridled creative expression. The museum's main gallery exhibition Art We Wear: Culture & Expression 1960s to Now looks at the cultural milieu that spawned the counter-culture and the wildly inventive, personally expressive clothing that was the hall mark of the movement. Out of that self-expression grew an astonishing art-to-wear movement where artistry, originality, and craftsmanship combined with functionality in vibrant one-of-a-kind garments. This exhibition will present creatively embellished garments from coastal Marin, examples of masterworks by Bay Area leaders of the art-to-wear movement along with examples of works by current garment-artists.

Have something fabulous?

Please email photos or information to elia@bolinasmuseum.org or call Elia at 415 868-2006 by April 30th. We need to know now what garments and artifacts might be available to consider for this exhibition.

For more information about the upcoming exhibitions, see the current Bolinas Museum newsletter available for free at the museum.

First Friends.

All proceeds go to Planned Parenthood:

Friendship is really serious when you start entertaining each others crazy ideas. The mundane just doesn't cut it anymore, so you supplement, like vitamins with a plate of veggies, unique, vibrant, multivitamin ideas. Like underwear with stitched on ovaries or maybe a taco or maybe even a beaver. Have we gone too far? Never. So we would like to introduce one of our wild ideas to you Bolinas and hope you make room for our strangeness. Because we really were First Friends.

We launched First Friends on Valentine's Day as a way to continue to participate, give back, and resist while also finding joy and laughter during these trying times. What we did not expect, was that this project would expand outside of our small community. First Friends panties are currently in 10 states across the USA! We have reached $1,500 in just over a month and are working toward our $5,000 goal.

All proceeds go to Planned Parenthood to help them continue to do the good work so many of us have benefited from. That's what makes this project so special!!

Nature, or: What Are We Looking For?

7 Photographers pushing at the limits of representational processes.

Gospel Flat Farmstand Gallery

Opening: April 15, 3-7 PM, with music by Sundog
Potluck and beer -- this is going to be a great afternoon. Come get it!

Photographs, books, slide projection, video, installation, and time-based processes from Artists working across the planet:

- Johanna Case-Hofmeister
- Magali Duzant
- Lucas Foglia
- Line Bøhmer Løkken
- Keliy Anderson Staley
- Aaron Wojack
- Minoosh Zomorodinia

Organized by Ethan Rafal

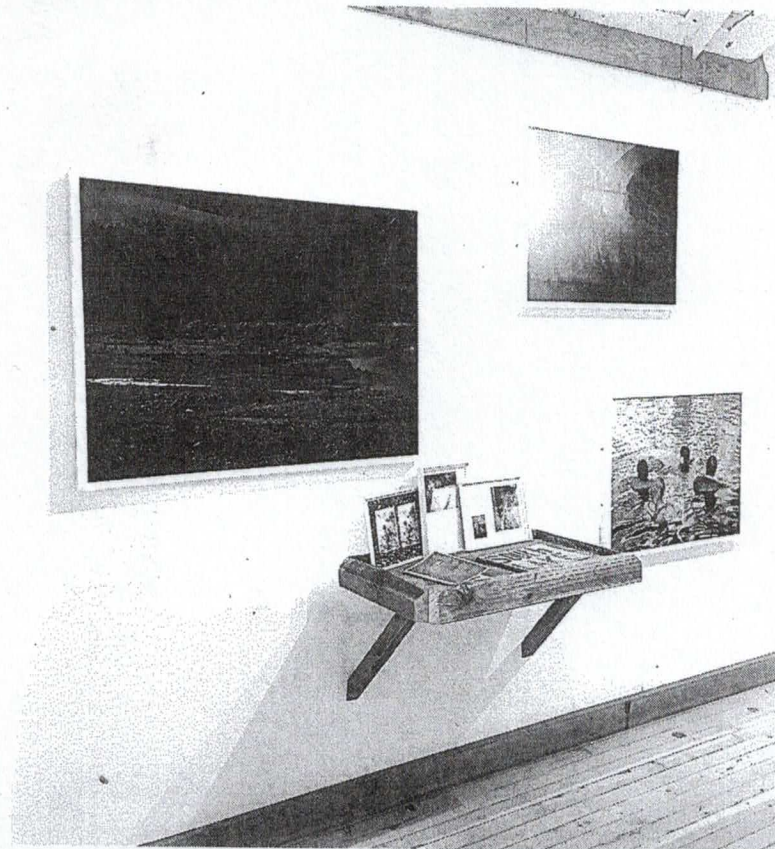

About the show:

About a year ago I came across a book by Eliot Porter — the American Photographer renowned for spearheading the use of color in - and further defining the genre of - Nature Photography. The cover was torn, and the book itself was completely faded, water damaged. But I saw organic forms, something photographic. Before I identified the photographer, I thought that it was a contemporary Artists' Book. I assumed the artist would be a process-based, camera-less photographer (such are the times). So it was interesting to find that it was, indeed, Eliot Porter — who is often labeled as a relic of some bygone, conservative bro-culture. I was struck: the distinction between the intentional, process-based work today, and this haphazard Eliot Porter remix, was slight. As is so often the case, it simply came down to context. I began to wonder: what would Nature Photography look like today?

As a genre, since Porter's heyday, Nature Photography has largely been relegated to the pages of National Geographic — oversaturated images of flowers, macaws, tossed amidst landscape, portraits, and stories of exotic worlds. This so-called "Nature Porn" is problematic. It is not just the objectification (as is often the case with depicted cultures), but the presentation of a faux objective methodology. Anyone who has spent time in Nature - especially when alone - knows that these depictions are Disneyland. The experience of Nature is personal, vital. It can be beautiful, but also intense, terrifying. So why has its representation been reduced to this cartoon? And why is this ritual copied by millions of people with digital cameras and a copy of photoshop?

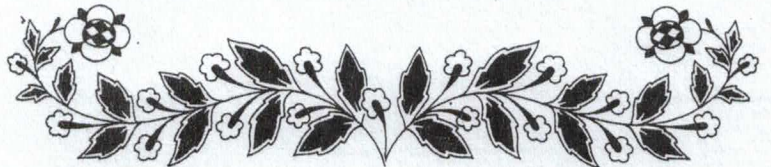

I guess it's no accident that as Rupert Murdoch took over National Geographic so many photographic artists left their cameras behind. Despite the dominant culture, though, I still wonder what an authentic Nature Photography looks like. I believe the individual, subjective experience of Nature matters — so I wonder what a subjective voice looks like, particularly one amplified through a camera. I wonder what our experience of Nature means, now, amidst Climate Fallout and the potential collapse of capitalism, and I wonder why its depiction is drowned out in noise. For all of this, I am left wondering — what we are looking for?

The photographers in this show address this question. In their myriad ways, they are pushing forward - and against, at times - prevailing strategies within the arts — of process, and materials-based abstraction. In some cases, they are pushing against themselves, questioning how their work functions across several strategies. They are not just photographing Nature, but asking us to think about the way we look - why - and how photographs function.

To be clear, the goal of this show is not to answer any questions, nor to return to a bygone era where we all took cameras out to explore some fictional, virgin wilderness. But it is to assert that authorship still matters, that an individual's authentic experience of Nature still matters, that a particular gaze into the enormity of existence - the wilderness itself, of our own time, of our own experience - that this still matters. Amidst fascism, and a society defined by extreme inequality, this is only more true — "in wildness is the preservation of the world," said Thoreau, at the beginning of the last Gilded Age. In our time this remains: the authentic experience of Nature is a political act, the authentic voice is personal and collective preservation.

LOST AND FOUND

LOST: THREE KEYS SOMEWHERE IN BOLINAS OR Stinson, on simple wire key ring. Two of these are ordinary looking, but the third key is much larger, oddly shaped, and a kind of grayish steel color.. They are very important to me.

FOUND: FREINDLY CREAMY COLORERED CAT
 (part Siamese?). Found on vacant lot sunning itself. Eyes weeping and needs care. Disappeared when we returned with food and water. Call 868-1321

LOST: GOLD EARRING ABOUT 1 INCH LONG.
 It is flat & sort of oblong with scalloped edges. It separated from the holder in my ear and fell out somewhere last Saturday possible when I was at the Mardi Gras Dance. This is the only memento I have from my Algonquin grandmother who is wearing them in the one photograph I have of her.
 Hope to find it. Martine 868 9036

 these items in a pair of socks wrapped in Jewelers cloth, please contact Connie-415-847-7103. Reward if returned- I donated a bag of clothing to the Free Box in January or February.
