LAST WEEKEND FOR
JOEY'S SPLENDID SHOW

If you haven't seen Joe Koppal's show at the Bolinas Gallery--don't miss it.

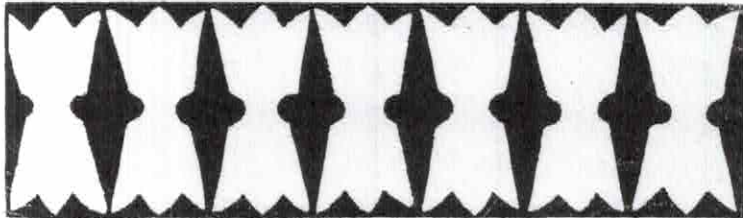

Joe builds his own personal vocabulary of strange symbols --often amusing, even bizarre-- into giant compositions on canvas that are stunning to the eye, beautiful of form, and intriguing to investigate.

He also makes sinuous sculptures that are very sensual and graceful, and--of all things!--regal chairs of unique design.

It's a lifetime of work by an inspired artist whose obsessive passion is his work.

Saturday and Sunday, afternoons, at the Bolinas Gallery.

--Dale Polissar

RAFFLE REPORT

The Raffle closed on Tuesday, 4/23, with a drawing at the Bolinas Library Poetry Reading.

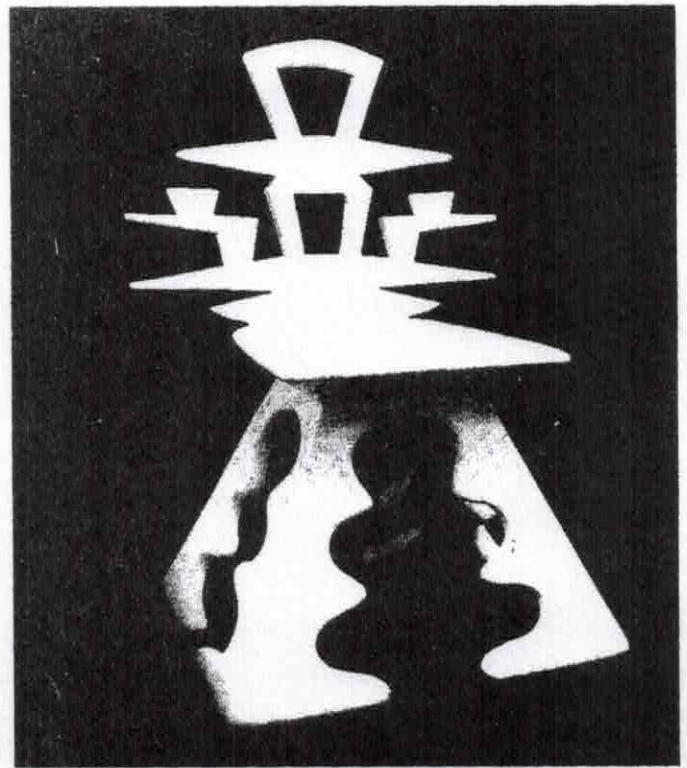

Hawk won the painting donated by Judy Molyneux. ! Final count of money raised is $1330. All funds will go to support Al Otro Lado, the volunteer legal team working with Central American refugees at the border,

Huge thanks go to Dale Polisar and to Judy for the many calls they made to spread the word and to Judy for the beautiful painting and to everyone else who helped with this team effort.

If you would still like to give to Al Otro Lado, their address and information about the work they are doing are readily available on the web.

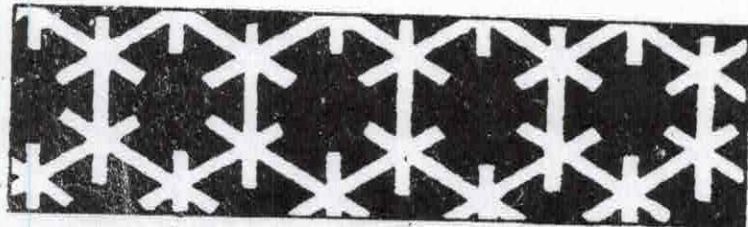

We hope to create another event to share the stories of some of our Central American friends and neighbors who have been interviewed. Their stories are very moving and will help us understand the situations motivating those who have fled.

There are also people in Bolinas who are working with organizations helping to make conditions better so that indigenous people can stay in their beautiful homeland. Sandy Dierks can tell you more about that. submitted by Martine Algier

BUILDING FOR LIFE

License #946778 - fully insured and bonded

Enough people have asked me for this recipe.
Here it is. – Michael Rafferty

Garlic Flan

Ingredients

- 1 head of fresh garlic with large cloves
- 2 cups heavy cream
- 1/2 teaspoon dried thyme
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 teaspoon freshly ground black pepper
- 4 egg yolks
- Butter for the ramekins or dish
- 2 tablespoons chopped chives for garnish

Equipment:

- Six 3-1/2 inch ramekins or a soufflé dish
- Potato masher
- Whisk
- Baking pan that's as deep as the ramekins/dish

Directions

Preheat the oven to 350° F (175° C). Start boiling 2 cups water in a medium saucepan. Pull the head of garlic apart, but leave the cloves unpeeled. Have the water boiling, and drop the garlic cloves in. Lower the heat, and cook for 5 minutes. Drain the garlic onto a medium bowl and allow it to cool.

In the meantime, butter the ramekins or soufflé dish well. Beat the egg yolks in a small bowl. Put the saucepan aside for later (no need to rinse). Start boiling 4 cups of water in a kettle for the final baking in a bain-marie.

Squeeze each garlic clove – the cooked garlic will emerge from the root end, not the pointy top. Discard the peels. Mash the garlic with a potato masher until you obtain a paste.

Pour the cream into the saucepan and add the garlic paste. Bring the mixture to a simmer. Stir in the thyme, salt and pepper. Take the saucepan off the heat. Add the beaten egg yolks to the cream mixture and whisk to distribute them well.

Spoon the cream into buttered ramekins or soufflé dish. Place in the baking dish and put the whole thing in the oven.

Pour enough boiling water into the baking dish to come up halfway up the sides of the ramekins/dish. This is important: less than halfway up, and the cream won't cook all the way through.

Bake for 25 minutes. Peek into the oven after 15 minutes. The top will caramelize, but if it looks like it might burn, place a layer of tin foil lightly over the tops of the ramekins/dish.

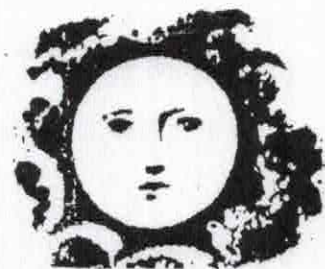

If serving in ramekins, wait 10 minutes before turning them upside down to serve. If using a soufflé dish, serve the flan out of it in generous spoonfuls. Either way, garnish with chopped chives.
