On death and dying and the whale:

I went to see the whale and wish I hadn't. I went to see the relic of a majestic creature, a Blue Whale, as the hoardes of humans came to see. Instead I saw in action a force I have been contemplating and fearing, and practicing to accept.

I'm grateful to have seen her (Death, the whale). I lost a friend to the ocean two months ago with nothing washed ashore, no evidence, no closure, an assumed "boating accident," just like the whale. I've been needing to confront her, this inevitable, as she's washed upon our shore. I intended to use one last shot of film to photograph, but there was no way to capture her, Death. She's elusive, in the stench, in the murky waves, in million microbial beings.

Somehow she Is and Was and Is Going to Be, all in the same moment, timeless. Death stayed with me, hauntingly, as I sang to the spirit of the whale a song a Tongvan man taught me, simply meaning, softly honoring her as Death and Decay patiently take their course on the shore.

"the waves come in, the waves go out,"

OPEN HOUSE

BOLINAS CHILDREN'S CENTER
270 ELM RD: BOLINAS
FRIDAY JUNE 9
2:00 - 5:00 pm

Parents, children and care givers are cordially invited to visit The Bolinas Children's Center to see our play-based program, meet our team of experienced teachers, and tour our spacious facility. We will be offering refreshments outside in our Ward Young Memorial organic garden.

The Children's Center has been providing excellent care and education to the children of Bolinas and Stinson Beach for over 40 years. We offer a Toddler program for 2 year olds, and Preschool/ Pre-K for 3 and 4 year olds.

We are currently enrolling for the school year starting in August, 2017. For more information, please call Laura at 868-2550

Calling All Babies!

The ceremonial Blessing of the Babies on the beach is a long-treasured Bolinas tradition and the heart of our annual Sun Festival. Please bring your babies to the beach off Wharf Road by 10:30am on Sunday, June 11th so that we can festively welcome them into our community in a ceremony starting at 11:00.

Afterwards, we'll all parade to the Downtown Park for picnicking, cobb-oven pizza, music jamming, kids' activities, and finally the Maypole dance around 2pm.

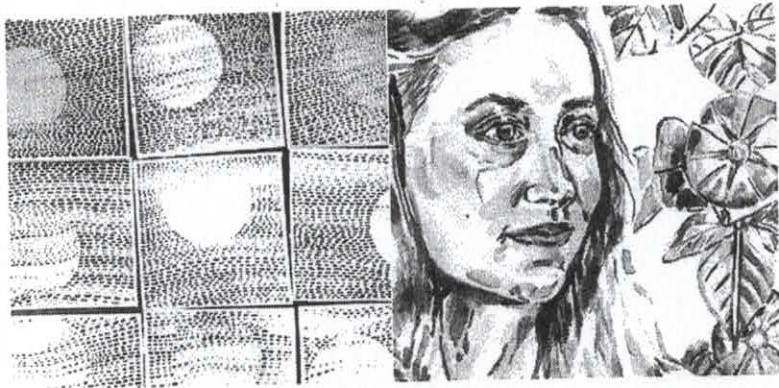

Dress in your most spectacular ceremonial regalia, and bring Sun protection, cold-weather gear (just in case), picnics, finger food to share at the Park, and acoustic instruments.

If you want to help with setup or contribute talent to the festivities, call me at 868-2662. Hope to see you there!

GOSPEL FLAT FARMSTAND

I KNOW THERE'S ALOT GOING ON,
BUT LET'S KEEP IT GOING!

Every year, a group of friends and I get together for our very informal yet very important artist retreat we like to call Wild Women's Watercolor Weekend.

The first year we explored the landscapes of the Anza Borago Desert. That spring I was pregnant with Otis, the drought was in full effect; very little wildflowers were showing themselves and we almost burnt down a hillside trying to heat up an outdoor bathtub. The next year I juggled a child while painting, and lots of breaks to the beach were necessary. We have had four years now of artistic adventures and many other adventures with these ladies in between.

Emily Underwood, from Carmel Valley is a science illustrator, naturalist and general enthusiast of life.

Maria Schoettler has also found a way to pursue her art making beautiful calendars featuring local seasonal produce.

Holly Mulder Wollan works in the radio business but on the side still teases the art world with her exquisite line making.

And me, well, you may or may not have seen me rushing around town, in between various gigs getting a few little art moments in here and there as Otis is growing into a little boy, becoming my best art critic.

Swing by the Farmstand this Saturday at 4pm until the early eve to see what we've been up to!

Cheers, Van Waring

Too much? Here's more!

The Abridged Unpresided (sic)* Dictionary

demagogue: a leader tending or aiming to gain personal or partisan advantage by arousing or appealing to popular passions or prejudices esp. by making specious or extravagant claims, promises, or charges specious: superficially fair, just, or correct but not so in reality oligarchy 1: despotic power exercised by a privileged clique 2: government by the few autocracy: government by one person who possesses unlimited power plutocracy: government by the wealthy kleptocracy: government by theft with the persistent neurotic impulse to steal esp. without economic motive in which the object stolen has symbolic significance to the kleptomaniac narcissism: overvaluation of one's own attributes or achievements megalomania 1: a mania for doing great or grandiose things 2: infantile feelings of omnipotence esp. when retained later in life (repeated from previous Hearsay) pathological liar: a person who tells lies so exaggerated or bizarre that they are suggestive of mental disorder billionaire: sorry, if you only have 999 million dollars, you're just a millionaire

*sic: intentionally so written- used after a printed word or passage to indicate that it is intended exactly as printed, or to indicate that it exactly reproduces an original, as seen recently when a Freudian slip replaced a "c" with an "s" on one dark & tweetstormy night
