Bolinas Museum Opening
Ocean Wonders & Wellness,
Saturday, September 27th
2PM artists talks, 3PM Reception

This is a group of exhibitions and events celebrates the ocean and creativity while reminding us again that each of us plays a role in the ecological health of our planet.

In the main gallery the Museum presents Nudibranchia: Butterflies of the Sea, paintings by artist Isabella Kirkland who is also a California Academy of Sciences Research Associate in the Department of Aquatic Biology. Nudibranchs are members of the vast mollusk phylum and fascinating creatures. Their glorious diversity of color and form could upstage the wildest Cirque du Soliel costume and is captured in meticulous detail in Kirkland's glowing paintings. Unfortunately locally nudibranchs serve as "canary in the mine" as warming coastal water has allowed an invading nudibranch specie to expand its territory and decimate much of the indigenous population on Duxbury Reef and tidepools along Marin's coast.

Color photographs of the seafloor at the Cordell Bank National Marine Sanctuary accompany Kirkland's paintings. Taken about 20 miles off the shores of the Marin/Sonoma coastline, these stunning images reveal the significance of this rocky reef that was designated as a National Marine Sanctuary by NOAA in 1989.

Internationally known photographer Chris Jordan's exhibition Midway: A Message From the Gyre speaks to the current health of our ocean. His photos confront us with disturbing and astonishing images of the demise of albatross chicks due to the ingestion of plastic marine debris rather than fish and plankton. Countless generations of albatross have hunted and fed their chicks on life forms like krill and squid skimmed off sea surfaces. They cannot discriminate between familiar prey and floating plastic garbage. Jordan writes, "Like the albatross, we first-world humans find ourselves lacking the ability to discern anymore what is nourishing from what is toxic to our lives and our spirits. Choked to death on our waste, the mythical albatross calls upon us to recognize that our greatest challenge lies not out there, but in here." In the choices and actions taken by each of us as individuals.

The immense amount of plastic waste in our oceans is also reflected in the witty but serious commentary of Judith Selby Lang's handsome jewelry created from beach plastic in her exhibition titled Like Diamonds, Plastic is Forever. Since 1999, Judith and her husband Richard Lang have collected tons of plastic debris from just Kehoe Beach in Point Reyes National Seashore. They use the plastic to make art that has brought international attention to the long-term effects of our consumer habits and the existence of vast floating rafts of plastic garbage, some bigger than Brazil, that form in ocean gyres.

Several public talks, tours and art making opportunities are related to these exhibitions, which run September 27th through January 4th 2015. The opening will begin with lively talks by the exhibiting artists starting at 2 PM followed by the reception at 3 PM. It is free and everyone is invited. There will also be a pop-up store The 4 R's: Refuse, Reduce, Reuse, Recycle featuring innovative, ocean friendly products and gifts perfect for the holidays that abide by the 4 R's to help curb the amount of plastic filling our oceans. Visit bolinasmuseum.org for more information.

EXHIBITION: AMIE CLUTE: ABSTRACT/FIGURE PAINTING/DRAWING at Claudia Chapline Gallery, 3445 Shoreline Highway, Stinson Beach, CA

DATES: October 5-November 2, 2014

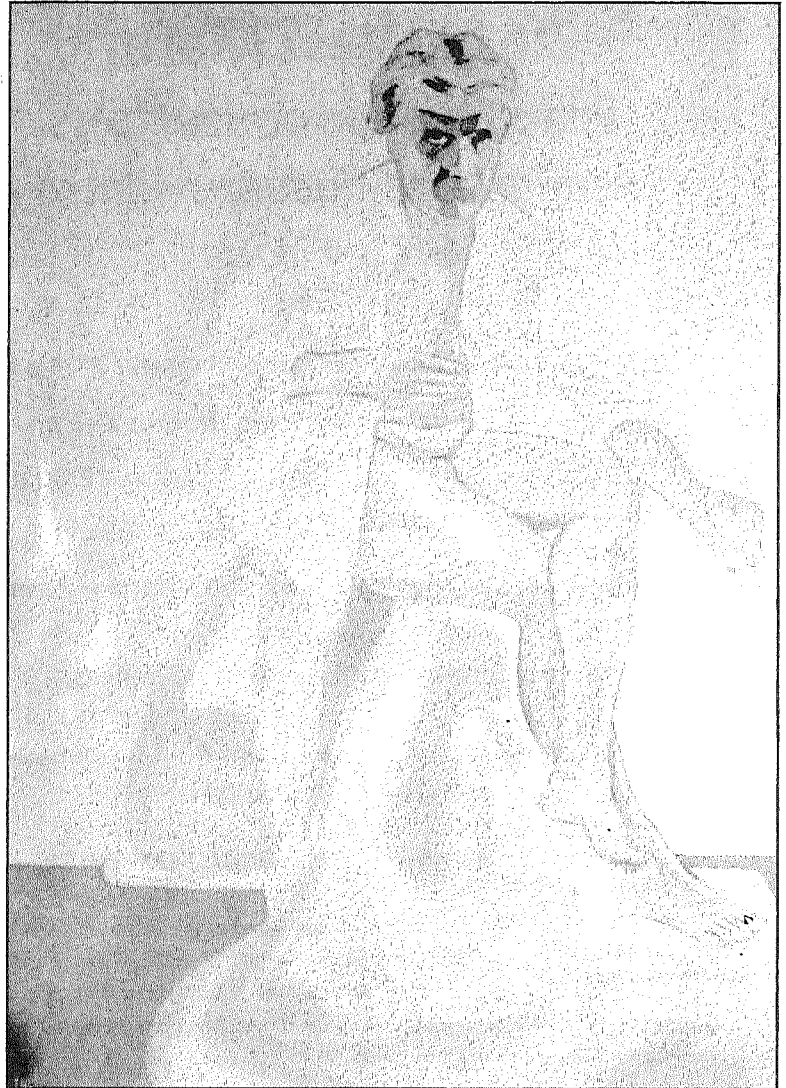

RECEPTION: October 5, 3-5 P.M.

Amie Clute's ABSTRACT/FIGURE PAINTING DRAWINGS at the Claudia Chapline Gallery, 3445 Shoreline Highway, Stinson Beach, California from October 5th-November 2nd were created between 2007 & 2014. She began her lifetime passion for figurative art by studying Life Drawing at The Young Artists Program at The De Young Museum, in 1985. Now 49, she continues to find figurative works of art, and artists who draw their inspiration from the figure, such as Alice Neel, Lucien Freud and Francis Bacon, most compelling.

Amie Graduated from John F. Kennedy University in 2008 with an MFA. The program at JFKU was an adjunct facility, located in Berkeley, within The Human Awareness/Psychology/Consciousness Studies department. Amie is a 5th generation, San Francisco Bay Area native whose parents owned and operated two nightclubs: Earthquake McGoon's and The Magic Cellar, with Turk Murphy and his wife. As a child growing up she was continually, and formally, introduced to artists of all sorts and developed a deep appreciation and value for the artist in society. She has been compelled to create images out of obsession with the figure.

Amie Clute says "Some people refer to this spirit of impulse a muse or a diety that moves or inspires one in artistic endeavors. Therefore, my work is quite personal. I seem to absorb myself in figures in order to understand something other than my own perspective, to come to know that other being in relationship to it, weather it be animal or human."

The public is invited to meet the artist at the opening reception on October 5 from 3 to 5 PM at the Claudia Chapline Gallery in Stinson Beach.

GRAFFITI CLEANUP ON BOLINAS BEACH

How nice to see the beach returned to its natural state since the seawalls have been cleansed of the harsh, garish graffiti, that was such an intrusive distraction!

Most of the imagery was jagged, aggressive, block letters, reminiscent of urban street gangs--so out of keeping with the soft, subtle, colors and organic forms of the sand, seashells, driftwood and native plants of the landscape.

However, it isn't necessary to argue about what is "art", or about what is or is not beautiful, because other issues definitively make the case against allowing graffiti on the seawalls.

The toxic fumes and the polluting spray paint and cans are reasons enough for this so-called "tradition" to stop! No other arguments even need to be mentioned. But I'd also like to mention that Bolinas Beach is basically a wilderness area--fully reclaimed by the sea twice each day--even though it's so easily accessible to us.

There are so few places left on this Planet that have not been altered by humans. Would the graffiti "artists" feel justified in wielding their spray cans within a forest preserve? I think most of them would not. So why should they spray our seaside wilderness?

It is so rare and special that we have this beautiful natural wonderland right in our backyard! We should be treating Bolinas Beach as the sacred place it is by just letting it be! The only "art" that Bolinas Beach needs is for us to pick up the trash that's already there and not to add any more!

By the way, the person who cleaned the walls was not "paid big bucks". He did it as a labor of love, as he's been doing for many years in Stinson. A few people contributed a little money for paint and his labor.
