Reconstruction and Recovery: The Post-Civil War South (8 week class) Old Dixie was shocked and humiliated by her unexpected defeat at the hands of the detested Yankees. Incredibly, "The Chivalry" had been beaten by soulless, materialistic Northerners. How would the loyal sons and daughters of the Confederacy react to the Unthinkable? Carry on the struggle, or join the modern world and create a commercial, urban culture where cotton and sugar cane once grew? This class will trace the moral and political struggle post-war Southerners faced in the wake of utter ruin
Mick Chantler, MA has been a student and instructor of early American studies for over forty years. He currently teaches at several Bay Area Lifelong Learning Programs, including Sonoma State University, Dominican University, U.C. Berkeley and U.C. Davis. Additionally, Mick teaches in the Road Scholars Program, and at many Senior Citizen Centers throughout the North Bay. His primary interests include the Revolutionary and Civil Wars, but he also has lectured on Richard Nixon and John F. Kennedy. Mick is a member of several scholarly organizations, including the Society for Historians of the Early American Republic, the Lincoln Forum, and the Society for American Baseball Research. He has lived in Sonoma California for over fifty years.

"Crazywise" Film Event 01/19/2018 - 7:00pm to 9:00pm Film screening of CRAZYWISE with conversation afterwards. Bob Banner has traveled to 6 different counties sharing the film nearly 20 times because of its groundbreaking treatment of people with alleged "broken brains" and how shamanic cultures have treated non ordinary experiences differently and with much more compassion. Ex mental patients, holotropic breathworkers, mental health workers, mindfulness practitioners and sengomas have initiated dialogue with audiences. Location: Church

Eric Muhler at the Dance Palace 01/20/2018 - 7:00pm to 9:00pm  Back by popular demand, the Dance Palace is excited and proud for the return engagement of jazz pianist and original composer Eric Muhler! Eric's solo act combines both classical music repertoire and his own original compositions with an amazing demonstration of totally improvised music that tends to defy influence and origin. He taps into deep streams of musicality from all traditions including Western European classical and American: from jazz and blues to rock and funk, romantic melody, chromatic color, harmony, and Latin and African rhythms that combine to transcend, transform, and illuminate. Combined with Eric's funny, intimate, and personal style of narrative, the show provides the listener with what Marin J critic Paul Liberator called "little journeys, road trips that twist and turn and reward listeners with surprises around every corner." Jazz singer Joe Jacovac may have said it best: "Listening to Eric's music intently can actually change neuron paths in the brain. His quiet side is at home in Nirvana; his adventurous side is a quick path to enlightenment." Tickets $25 general, $20 youth and teens / children and seniors. Doors open at 6:30pm, show begins at 7:00pm Location: Main Hall
WHAT HAPPENED
Monday Morning Recap
1-15-18 Week in Review from Jenniepfeiffer

Today is a remembrance holiday, a day to honor the late Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. and the work he did for civil rights during the 1950's and 60's. Though his life was cut short by an assassin’s bullet, his inspirational speeches, his dream, and his lifelong commitment to equality for all continues, as we renew our efforts for social justice.

Continuing with that effort and determination, our Bolinas-Stinson School District Board of Trustees, administration, and staff, are committed to providing excellent educational opportunities at a safe, beautiful campus, for all the children of our District, whatever their backgrounds, national origins, family living arrangements, or individual needs. We encourage families and community members to join us at meetings, the second Tuesday of every month, to ask questions or give input. Our meeting this past Tuesday had several lively discussions about program, discipline policy updates, ideas for a more open program, and configuration of classes for next year. There will be a parent meeting on configuration on January 30, at 6:30 at the school - all are invited.

Update on our Spanish program reported that our preschool afterschool Spanish class is so full other classes will be added. We are working on our strategic plan and there will be a Board retreat for that January 22 from 9:00am to noon. The more we work together on school related matters, the better our school will meet the needs of our students and their families.

Thanks to Pam Springer for the #7 Grateful Dead Night fundraiser. She organizes these events and arranges for members of the Community to provide food, baked goods, and items to sell to raise money for a family who is going through a difficult time. Saturday's event was to support Pablo Hernandez and his ongoing medical costs. The music was fine and the dancing was exceptional with many of our littlest community members enjoying the dance music of The West Marin Grateful Dead Appreciation Society with reckless abandon. As Magda would always say, "our town is best when dancing". More, more, more!

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

• The old-fashioned union suit—so great not to have that shivery chill down your back. Snooos too are a good thing this time of year.

• The sublime views of Elephant Mountain (Black’s Hill) as you’re driving down from Inverness to Bolinas.

• The sight of persimmons, hanging like bright orange Christmas decorations on the bare tree. My sister has one in her yard in Mill Valley.

Join Mainstreet Moms, Indivisible WM, and others to support the one year anniversary of the National Women’s March occurring across the U.S. this Saturday, January 20th. Stand in solidarity with us starting at 12 noon in front of Wells Fargo Bank in PRS.

Celebrate our one year of resistance and help launch our collective 2018 Women’s March agenda: Power to the Polls. It’s time to help others register, to help them get to the polls on Election Day, and to VOTE.

We will be waving blue flags (as in a Blue Wave of election wins across this country). And, of course, your signs are always welcome.

If you need help making a blue flag here is a short how-to video. Hope to see you there!

Nature Notebook By Loretta Farley

Morning tides remain in the six-foot range as the new moon approaches on Tuesday, Jan. 16. There will be a window of daylight minus tides in the late afternoons, occurring just before sunset and darkness, from Jan. 12 through Jan. 18. Some good days for tidepooling will be afternoons across the Martin Luther King, Jr. holiday weekend. As always, do not turn your back on the water!

All the adventure and excitement is out at the Headlands as Northern elephant seal breeding season moves into full gear and the colonies grow. Over 200 females, called cows, have arrived on park beaches and the first pup birth of the season was noted on Dec. 26. If you have binoculars, look for the senior dominant male (or alpha) that has been dye marked D-1. He may appear to be napping, but if challenged with plenty of noise from a rival male, you may see him leap up and sprint toward the threatening sounds. Sometimes the sound of the alpha male, made through his flappy nose or proboscis, is enough to send the rival packing. Alternatively, they may move toward each other with a full-on wrestling match. The heavy callus of skin on their chest, called a chest shield, protects against bites reaching vital organs. The smaller females try to stay out of the way, but add to the chorus of sounds in the colony. If separated from their pup, they emit a unique song in order to reunite with the pup. Park researchers report 670 seals as of Jan. 5.
