WHAT HAPPENED
11-19-18 Monday Morning Recap
Week-in-Review from Jennie Pfeiffer-Riley

Another bad air week. I escaped for a few days to spend some time working on family matters in L.A. Who would ever have thought Los Angeles would be experiencing better air quality than the Bay Area?

It has also been a week to receive enthusiastic fast and furious emails with updates for the Bolinas-Stinson Beach 868+ Phone Directory. As I posted on Next Door, I thank everyone so much, especially the Stinson Beach residents not adequately included in the past, for the excellent response with 868 and/or cell #s, mail and email addresses (as desired) and I'm reporting that it's almost overwhelming. I will try to contact everyone to let you know I've received your information, but that is taking awhile.

I have two requests please: 1) Email responses work best (jenniepfeifferR@gmail.com) because my phone answer machine, which other family members use as well, is filling up, so afraid I might miss someone. 2) Directory is also filling up, getting fat with more pages, so it is important that departed residents (either to elsewhere on the planet or to the next dimension), and businesses no longer in service, have their names deleted so more room for new entries. If you know of such people, please let me know. It is not my practice to call every number to check for accuracy. If you are moving, but still want friends and neighbors to be able to reach you, you certainly may leave in your name, address and cell, but let me know to take out your 868#. I am sure loving all the help, working as fast as I can, but there are a lot of new entries, so finished product may be a bit delayed. I will be at the Bolinas Community Center Winter Faire, BOLINAS HEARSAY NEWS table, to attempt to reach more people for additions & corrections. You may check your entries there for veracity, reminding everyone that the better the accuracy, the more useful the product. Giving thanks to and for you all, you are the BEST!

Hoping everyone has excellent feast days as we remember this is a good sharing time, so pass it on. Hoping we all breathe easier in the coming days.

What's the Impact of Time Change?

Californians just voted to make Daylight Savings time last year round. Basically you were voting to eliminate the twice yearly change that people tend to like in the fall, when the clock is set back and you gain an hour of sleep, and tend to dislike in the spring when the clock is set an hour forward, and you lose an hour in bed. Why is this important from the point of view of your health?

Studies have shown that there is a 24% increase in heart attacks in the week after "spring forward" because of losing that hour of sleep, and a significant increase in fatal auto accidents in the week following the shift. Pedestrian deaths are also increased. When the change occurs in the fall, with people gaining an hour of sleep, the opposite is true. Why was the vote to keep Daylight Savings time rather than Standard time?

Daylight saving time originated as an energy-saving measure during World War I and was adopted sporadically in pacetime. In 1966, amid confusion over a patchwork of schemes in each state for beginning and ending daylight saving time, Congress stepped in with the Universal Time Act to standardize it nationwide. States could opt out of daylight saving time — it's not observed in Hawaii because this state, the farthest south, doesn't see a big difference in daylight hours between winter and summer months. Most of Arizona is on standard time all year but the Navajo Nation does use Daylight Savings Time. This is because the Navajo Nation also lies partly in New Mexico and Utah, which make the changes. The Hopi Tribe within the Navajo Nation goes along with the rest of Arizona.

Despite the fact that daylight saving time was introduced to save fuel, there isn't strong evidence that the current system actually reduces energy use — or that making it year-round would do so either. Studies that evaluate the energy impact of daylight savings are mixed. It seems to reduce lighting use (and thus electricity consumption) slightly but may increase heating and AC use, as well as gas consumption. It's probably fair to say that energy-wise, it's a wash.

Democratic Congressman Kansen Chu authored Proposition 7, which allows the state Legislature, with a two-thirds vote, to make California's daylight saving time last year round, provided it is agreed to by the federal government. Currently, it is not, though there is already a Florida bill pending in Congress that could change that. Chu is satisfied that legislation will suffice to clear the federal hurdles and said he'll focus on winning over the two-thirds of the state Legislature, where some of his colleagues have argued things are fine the way they are. National Parent Teachers groups oppose permanent daylight savings because of safety concerns with children going to school in the dark. Chu initially suggested ditching daylight saving time and keeping standard time all year, but youth sports leagues said that would keep them from holding weekday practices and games after work and school because darkness would come too early. So Chu switched gears and pushed for permanent daylight saving time instead.

Obviously this is a complicated issue, and here's the take home message. Sleep is a vitally important issue for your body, your heart, and your safety on the road. Resolve to get enough of it every day, and go to bed an hour early before Daylight Savings time comes around so you won't suffer so much in the following week. Pay attention to jet lag — many people use melatonin to get them through the adjustment. If your friends pride themselves on how little sleep they need, start priding yourself on how much you enjoy a full 7 to 8 hours or more. Your brain and your body will thank you!

Lincoln's Gettysburg Address in Gettysburg, PA on Nov. 19, 1863.

The Gettysburg Address Recited by Johnny Cash
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=ahd1U5-v2Mk
Abraham Lincoln's "Gettysburg Address" is recognized internationally as a great piece of English literature. How appropriate that one of music's most-recognized international artists should lend his interpretation to it. Cash recorded the Address for his America album, released in 1972 and re-released for his 70th birthday. In 1959, Cash appeared on the "Ed Sullivan Show" with Frankie Laine, who recited the Gettysburg Address—one wonders if this is where he got the idea to record it a decade later.

The Gettysburg Address

Four score and seven years ago our fathers brought forth on this continent a new nation, conceived in liberty, and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.

Now we are engaged in a great civil war, testing whether that nation, or any nation so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure. We are met on a great battlefield of that war. We have come to dedicate a portion of that field, as a final resting place for those who here gave their lives that that nation might live. It is altogether fitting and proper that we should do this.

But, in a larger sense, we can not dedicate, we can not consecrate, we can not hallow this ground. The brave men, living and dead, who struggled here, have consecrated it, far above our poor power to add or detract. The world will little note, nor long remember what we say here, but it can never forget what they did here. It is we the living, rather, to be dedicated here to the unfinished work which they who fought here have thus far so nobly advanced. It is rather for us to be here dedicated to the great task remaining before us—that from these honored dead we take increased devotion to that cause for which they gave the last full measure of devotion—that we here highly resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain—that this nation, under God, shall have a new birth of freedom—and that government of the people, by the people, for the people, shall not perish from the earth.
