WINTER CRAFTS AT THE BOLINAS LIBRARY

Come celebrate the changing seasons with paper crafts and treats.

Open to all kids and kids at heart This Thursday!

THURSDAY DECEMBER 7TH, 3:30PM

I love music. I have heard Hope Briggs only twice in my life. She has a voice that could fill a cathedral. I have heard her only in rather small, more intimate settings: the first time at Sam and Cindy McCullagh's Black Cat luncheon on Friday the 13th at the University Club in San Francisco, with Terry Bell also in attendance before he got sick, and when Hope got up to sing her voice was so rich and contained and focused and powerful that I swear I saw Terry's hair blow back like in a cartoon; the second time was three or four months ago in an intimate concert with Bill Quist accompanying in St. Mary Magdalene Church here in Bolinas, attended by ten or twelve other lucky people.

I am eager to hear her again and so hereby urge anyone who loves great music to stop whatever else they are doing* for a couple of hours and go to St. Mary Magdalene Church at the intersection of Olema-Bolinas and Horseshoe Hill Roads to hear Hope Briggs on Saturday afternoon, 2:00 pm, December 16.

You won't regret it.
-- Michael Rafferty

*SPLIT the lark and you'll find the music,
Bulb after bulb in silver rolled.*
-- Emily Dickenson

* P.S. - On December 16th I am also committed to a joint art opening/celebration/ice-cream -party/at the Bolinas Book Exchange and Commons with Nicole Lavelle 's new book reading as well as my art show of recent paintings of flowers on a table by a window in the moonlight. Since I can't be in two places at once, I will be at each one of them separately. I hope you can join me at both.

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- Saturday's 'super moon'—followed by a super-low tide this afternoon.
- This coming weekend's Bolinas Winter Faire, giving us a chance to support local crafts and food.
- The cheerful splash of brilliant yellow flowers around our neighborhood. Is it Mexican marigold or something else?

Nature Notebook By Loretta Farley

This weekend, a "super moon" shines over local festivities! As the moon makes its orbit, it will be slightly closer to the earth and thus appear bigger and brighter in clear skies. It will also bring very high tides in the 6-7 foot range peaking just around 10:15 a.m. on Monday, December 4 with a 7.0 foot tide.

Rain means the beginning of the seasonal winter run of coho salmon and steelhead trout with scientists noting the egg laying sites or redds as well as the spawning fish. Unusual this year are some wanderers in Lagunitas Creek, pink salmon (also known as humpies or hump-back salmon) and chum salmon, usually found in Oregon and Washington waterways. At Muir Beach, hopefully with the high tide and rain this weekend, the sand bar at the mouth of Redwood Creek will wash away and allow fish to enter.

Some surprising appearances coinciding with the recent combinations of warm weather and rain, lavender iris blooming in front of the community center and pink currant shrubs blooming along the Levee Road. Mushrooms are also making their appearance.

And a little early, the first male Northern Elephant seal pulled ashore on Drakes Beach for a winter rest before the busy mating season gets underway. Several sub adults have been at Chimney Rock throughout past months.

Sound Orchard Winter Fest with Ramblin' Jack Elliott

Sunday, December 10, 4:00-6:30 pm

Dance Palace, 503 B St., Point Reyes Station, CA 94956

Featuring West Marin Choir, Point Reyes Children's Choir and Tim Weed's Festive Winter Singalong

Folk legend Ramblin' Jack Elliott headlines this celebration of West Marin's spirit through community and song. This musical variety show begins with performances by the rousing West Marin Choir and the new Point Reyes Children's Choir, then Jack's performance followed by a Festive Winter Singalong with Tim Weed.

This is a rare chance to catch Ramblin' Jack in concert. One of the great folk icons of this country, Jack is a multi-Grammy-award winner who was Woody Guthrie's protégé and Bob Dylan's mentor, serving as the living link between the two. In the tradition of roving troubadours Jack has carried the seeds and pollens of story and song for decades from one place to another, from one generation to the next.

Vehicle park among suggested fixes in Bolinas

By Silas Valentino

The construction of a vehicle park is one of six recommendations released by a subcommittee of the Bolinas Community Public Utility District last month, culminating several months pondering public concern over people living in and storing vehicles on the town's roads. The committee also recommended the district work with the county to obtain a permit from the California Coastal Commission to implement an updated downtown parking and traffic plan. The committee is seeking public input on the recommendations ahead of next month's district meeting, when the board will consider them. "The committee members agree that Bolinas should not seek to simply evict people living in their vehicles downtown without an alternative, particularly since that likely will transfer the problem elsewhere," the committee wrote. "Bolinas has the land and the potential utilities available to support a 'vehicle park' or 'tiny home community' if one could be permitted under applicable zoning and other laws." The Bolinas Community Land Trust has already expressed an interest in monitoring such a park, said the committee, which is also asking BCPUD to move ahead with the implementation of the Downtown Parking & Traffic Plan. Bolinas residents approved that plan in 2005, but at the time, the coastal commission objected to it because of its potential to hinder public access to the coast, a key purpose of the Coastal Act. A BCPUD committee recently conducted a parking survey, whose results helped update the plan, which would employ new signage, speed humps and residential parking stickers. Bruce Bowser, chairman of the committee, said he is working with the coastal commission to implement the plan on a three-year trial basis. "We think 10 years later, we've got a better case for trying to make more residential parking available and we're going to do it in a subtle but firm fashion," he said. The other recommendations include increased enforcement of current parking laws, new tow-away zones and the removal of vehicles used as storage containers. Jennifer Blackman, the district's general manager, said a detailed explanation of the recommendations will be posted on Nextdoor.com and published in the Bolinas Hearsay News before the next board meeting on Dec. 20. "The recommendations are there for evaluation and input and we want to make sure everyone has a chance to weigh in," she said. Comments can be delivered to Ms. Blackman at jblackman@bcnud.org or (415) 868.1224.
