School Assembly - Charged Particles: Jazz with a Spark! 03/26/2019 - 10:00am to 12:00pm SCHOOL ASSEMBLY Performance for the Schools: Charged Particles: Jazz with Spark! - Tuesday, March 26, 2019 Charged Particles offers a wide variety of educational workshops that bring to life the fun of America's original musical style: jazz. Jazz is made up of four building blocks: rhythmic grooves (e.g., swing, samba, salsa, funk, shuffle), melody, harmony, and most importantly, improvisation. The group demonstrates how a melody that all students recognize can sound very different if accompanied by different harmonies or if played over different rhythmic grooves. The group shows how improvising is at the heart of every jazz concert and how jazz has evolved over its history. Location: Main Hall

Cascade Canyon School Fundraising Concert 03/31/2019 - 2:00pm to 4:30pm World-fusion music pioneer JAI UTTAL joins forces with long-time collaborator, multi-instrumentalist BEN LEINBACH, as well as contemporary fingerstyle guitar master TEJA GERKEN and Americana singer-songwriter CHARLES HENRY PAUL in a benefit performance for Cascade Canyon School at the Dance Palace in Point Reyes Station. The afternoon will include solo performances as well as collaborations. Location: Main Hall, Church

Paul Smith Piano Concert 03/31/2019 - 7:00pm Emeritus faculty member Paul Smith presents his annual piano recital to benefit Contemporary Opera Marin. This year: J.S. Bach's Partita No. 1, a far-ranging exploration of the keyboard suite style of the time; Franz Schubert's Sonata in A major, Opus 120, an enchantingly lilting work; Frederic Chopin's Fantasie, Op. 49, a far-ranging single movement work throwing off the strictures of current

ATTENTION!
BOLINAS HARDWARE
WILL BE CLOSED
FOR OWNERSHIP
TRANSITION
ON SUNDAY, MARCH 31ST
PLEASE SHOP EARLY!

Dear Bolinas Friends and Neighbors,

Many of you have heard rumors that the hardware store has sold and it's true. We are formally announcing that after eight years of ownership, we are retiring and the former Bolinas Bay Hardware & Mercantile will have new owners as of April 1, 2019. We hope you will welcome Dave Huebner and James Finch, both of whom live in Bolinas and are very excited to carry on the hardware tradition in town.

The past eight years have been a huge learning experience but also a unique opportunity to get to know many people in town and be able to contribute in many ways to our community. Thank you all for your advice, your suggestions, your wonderful personalities and of course, for your patronage. We have loved our little store and it's been our honor to serve Bolinas.

We will be closed on Sunday March 31 to finalize the store transfer and will open again at 8am on Monday, April 1st. We are very sorry if this inconveniences anyone, but please try to plan ahead and get what you need by Saturday.

Karen will be in the store through mid-April to help James and Dave learn the ropes so you'll see her in the store for a few more weeks. We hope you'll stop in soon and say hello to our young, energetic new owners. They are great guys and will be relying on your help and patronage, just as we did.

We're staying in Bolinas and you will definitely see us around town!

Thank you for all your love and support,

Tom and Karen Dibblee

We All Depend on the Survival of Bees

In the film Fantastic Fungi by Louie Schwartzberg, amazing time lapse photography shows the growth of numerous kinds of fungi as they digest dead plant and animal material and in so doing enrich the earth. Fungi, a separate form of life from plants and animals, have healing properties for the immune systems of animals, including humans, which are beginning to be researched. The film, which stars the mycologist Paul Stamets, among others, has an important section on the use of fungi to help bees resist viruses in their hives.

According to a new paper from Washington State University (WSU), and colleagues at Fungi Perfecti, a mushroom extract fed to honey bees greatly reduces virus levels in their hives. Colonies fed mycelium extract from amadou and reishi fungi showed a 79-fold reduction in deformed wing virus and a 45,000-fold reduction in Lake Sinai virus compare to control colonies.

Mycelium is the vegetative part of a fungus consisting of a mass of branching, threadlike hyphae. It penetrates deep into the soil. Fungi Perfecti is a business dedicated to promoting the cultivation of high quality medicinal mushrooms. Paul Stamets grows his mushrooms organically in the Pacific Northwest.

"Our greatest hope is that these extracts have such an impact on viruses that they may help varroa mites become an annoyance for bees, rather than causing huge devastation," said Steve Sheppard, a WSU entomology professor and one of the paper's authors. "We're excited to see where this research leads us. Time is running out for bee populations and the safety and security of the world's food supply hinges on our ability to find means to improve pollinator health."

The research was published in the journal Scientific Reports.

At present, the mycelium extract isn't currently available in levels for beekeepers to purchase for their hives.

"We are ramping up production of the extracts as rapidly as is feasible, given the hurdles we must overcome to deploy this on a wide scale," Stamets added. "Those who are interested in being kept up to date, can sign up for more information at <http://www.fungi.com>."

Sheppard said he and his colleagues plan to do more work to refine their now-published results. That way beekeepers will have the best information when supplies are more available.

"A portion of this project was funded by USDA-NIFA project WNP00604.

Chlorpyrifos Another threat to honey bees and other forager bees is the insecticide chlorpyrifos. Honey bees experience a learning and memory deficit after ingesting small doses of this insecticide, potentially threatening their survival, according to a study in New Zealand. Chlorpyrifos is a highly neurotoxic organophosphate pesticide used worldwide on crops to protect against insects and mites.

The effects of this insecticide on animals and humans has been widely studied since the 1970s. Chlorpyrifos affects living things to various degrees: it is very toxic to birds and insects, including bees, quite toxic to fish, and also toxic to humans. Home use of chlorpyrifos was banned in 2000, when Dow withdrew it from the market voluntarily, though it is still found in insect baits. Golf courses still combat pests with it, and it is also used by farmers on nearly 50 crops—many of which we consume, like oranges—and in cattle ear tags. Farmworkers are exposed, and pregnant farmworkers may have lasting damage to their children. Recent studies of small children have found a link between chlorpyrifos and lower IQ and developmental problems

Hawaii is the first state to ban Chlorpyrifos. California should follow suit. Contact your congressperson, senators and governor Gavin Newsom to ban this highly toxic chemical.
