THE BOLINAS HEARSAY NEWS – MONDAY, MAY 1, 2017

Beloved Pastor Sharon of The Calvary Presbyterian Church here in Bolinas passed away peacefully Tuesday April 25th, surrounded by her family and loved ones. There are no words to express the loving impact she made not only upon our community but to guests of our town as well; her hand was always extended in love and friendship for anyone in her presence. A benevolent soul with a heart as big and deep as our Pacific mother, she truly embodied the meaning of unconditional love. She ended every sermon by tenderly yet emphatically reminding us, "that you are BELOVED, one of God's exquisite and for whatever mistakes you think you have made, you are already forgiven, be gentle with yourselves!" Sharon's resolute faith carried her, enveloped her, and she was at peace.

Dear Bolinas-Stinson School Community

There will be another opportunity for community input on our configuration conversation (specifically the location of the 1/2 classroom) at a special board meeting next Tuesday, May 2nd at 3:15 in the middle school. The reason for the early start time is that this meeting has been set up for the board to hear from staff as well. This meeting is for discussion and input, no voting will take place at this meeting. I encourage anyone who wants to provide more input on our configuration conversation to come to the meeting. Additionally, your emails, letters, phone calls or a private meeting with me are certainly welcome. Please don't hesitate to let me know exactly what your concerns are—the more specific the better. Thank you.

*Dearest Bolinas lovers of Hawaiiana and the hula, our upcoming biannual show is next Saturday! This is our 20th anniversary show, and so is sure to fill your heart with many beautiful hulas, both ancient (kahiko with drums) and modern (auana with ukulele). Tickets are presale only, sorry no tickets at the door, so feel free to call me for more info and for tickets. This is a family friendly show in a beautiful old outdoor stone tiered amphitheater set in a hillside surrounded by oaks, bring low chairs and a picnic!

Dear West Marin Neighbors,

We need your help! On May 13th and 20th, West Marin Fire Departments will be offering a Community Emergency Response Team (CERT) training in Nicasio. This is an excellent and exciting opportunity to become more prepared to help out during a disaster that may overwhelm our first responder's. In recent years, we have seen a decline in our CERT trained neighbors as they have moved out of the area. If you are the type to jump in and help when the going gets rough, please, consider taking the time to attend this two day class. We all hope a disaster won't occur but if (when) it does, West Marin is likely to not receive additional help and will need to rely on our own resources. Let's pull together! To find out more information and to register, go to www.readymarin.org.

Thank you!

Helping our Immigrant Residents Develop a Family Plan

Bolinas residents, regardless of immigration status or citizenship, need to be united toward lessening the fear of those who face Trump's immigration threats to deport Latino immigrants.

Next Tuesday will be our followup event to help our immigrant Spanish-speaking residents to protect their family members should anyone be detained by Trump's ICE henchmen.

When: Tuesday, May 2, 2017 @ 6:30pm

Where: Bolinas School

Our May 2 event will allow immigrant families (and single workers) the opportunity to fill out legal forms to protect and safeguard their finances, assets, and children in case of deportation.

We must stand united to help those who live in fear.

— Bolinas Immigrant Action Committee

Diet Sodas – the Bad News

About one in three Americans drink a can of sweetened soda every day, which is – as you already know – a bad habit leading to weight gain and diabetes. Many people have switched to diet soda, hoping to avoid these outcomes but still enjoy the taste of a sweet, cold, fizzy can of Coke, Pepsi, Mountain Dew, or Dr. Pepper. You may be immune to pressure to buy these drinks, but they are ubiquitous and their marketing is pushed at teens and young adults.

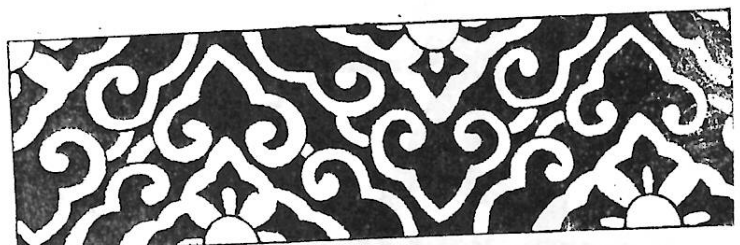

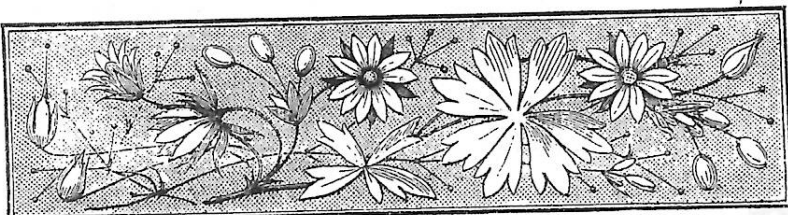

Research suggests that excess sugar, especially the fructose in sugary drinks, may damage the brain. Data from the Framingham Heart Study found that frequent users of sugary beverages are more likely to have poorer memory, smaller overall brain volume, and a smaller hippocampus – an area of the brain important for learning and memory.

A follow-up study found that people who drank a diet soda daily were almost three times as likely to develop stroke and dementia when compared to those who did not. The researchers took age, smoking, diet quality and other factors into account, but acknowledged that they could not completely control for preexisting conditions like diabetes, which is a known risk factor for dementia. They concluded that it was somewhat surprising that diet soda consumption led to these outcomes. While previous studies have linked diet soda intake with stroke risk, the link with dementia was not previously known. The studies did not differentiate between types of artificial sweeteners. Scientists have put forth various hypotheses about how artificial sweeteners may cause harm, from transforming gut bacteria to altering the brain's perception of 'sweet', but they conclude that more work is needed to figure out the underlying mechanisms.

Sudha Seshadri, professor of neurology at Boston University School of Medicine, and senior author on the papers, wrote "these studies are not the be-all and end-all, but it looks like there is not very much of an upside to having sugary drinks, and substituting the sugar with artificial sweeteners doesn't seem to help. Maybe good old fashioned water is something we need to get used to.

The following is Greenwood writing: You could also try unsweetened iced coffee or tea, or plain sparkling water with a slice of lemon or orange. Plain carbonated water does not adversely affect your bones or teeth, and may improve swallowing problems in some people.

SUCCESS: Garnett Silver-Hall scored a hat trick—three goals—at the 2017 Disabled Hockey Festival this month.

The Bolinas 15-year-old started playing sled hockey six years ago.

By Silas Valentino

Reprinted from
The Point Reyes Light
04/27/2017

Garnett Silver-Hall was prepared for a matchup as he led his sled hockey team, the Sharks, into the championship game against the Chicago Hornets earlier this month at the 2017 Disabled Hockey Festival in San Jose. He had faced the Hornets before, and knew they were prone to using the technique of "checking"—in which a player deliberately crashes into an opponent. This was the first sled hockey title match for the Bolinas teenager and, after a slow start, he used his speed to score back-to-back goals within 54 seconds. He'd go on to snag one more goal before the game's end; his hat trick propelled the Sharks to the top. "When that final buzzer rang, it felt great," he said. "I looked back at my coach and I was so happy. None of us expected that."

Mr. Silver-Hall, a 15-year-old freshman at Tamalpais High, has been playing sled hockey for the last six years. His team is one of the many offered through the Bay Area Outreach and Recreation Program, a free sports program designed for children with disabilities. Although Mr. Silver-Hall was born with arthrogryposis, a condition in his joints that prevents him from walking, he's a sports maverick. He plays wheelchair basketball and has even developed his own move in wheelchair motocross: the "G-Wheel." "It's like a cartwheel," he said. Outside of sports, he is a committed drummer and has been playing in school bands since kindergarten. He hopes to attend the Berklee School of Music, in Massachusetts, to continue studying the instrument. Following his big win in San Jose, Mr. Silver-Hall said he's shifted his focus to spreading the word on the program that got him there, to help attract more players. "BORP has shown me a lot of independence," he said. "Sports proves that you can do a lot of stuff that people don't think you can do."
