• Black Mountain Circle Presents Standing on Sacred Ground: Profit & Loss Toby McLeod & Melissa Nelson

05/19/2019 - 2:00pm to 4:00pm

~Co-sponsored by Sacred Land Film Project~

Indigenous communities around the world and in the U.S. are resisting threats to their sacred places—the original protected lands—in a growing movement to defend human rights and restore the environment.

Standing on Sacred Ground is a four-part documentary series where native people share ecological wisdom and spiritual reverence while battling government mega-projects, consumer culture, and resource extraction as well as competing religions and climate change. This series exposes threats to native peoples' health, livelihood, and cultural survival in eight communities around the world. Rare verité scenes of tribal life allow indigenous people to tell their own stories—and confront us with the ethical consequences of our culture of consumption.

Jenniepfeiffer's Monday Morning Recap

What happened was we Moved into May-hem, Marching toward the middle of May and the Month's Merriment Madness, moving from Mother's Day toward Memorial Day as the social season starts heading into the explosion of summer calendar events.

Big thanks go out to the Members of our Bolinas Fire Department and volunteers, as they once again served up an excellent Meal for a Marvelous Mother's Day Pancake Breakfast. The fire trucks were moved out of the bays and the community Moms and families Moved in as the station was transformed into a Marvelous venue for greetings and eating and enjoying the spring like weather. Massive Mountains of eggs, pancakes, bacon, and fruit salad went down easy, and once the sweet syrup and caffeine kicked in, the energy level accelerated and the voice volume cranked up in the huge hall until we were propelled to the great outdoors. The clean-up was swift and thorough, and by the time Sunday Soccer rolled round, there was no evidence reMaining of the Morning's festivities other than Miss-Kitty-the-dog's quick discovery of a spill of bacon grease that was perfect for such a dog to taste then tuck and roll in until busted and leashed and repriManded. It didn't take a dog whisperer to tell by her deMeanor that she felt that the criMe was worth the tiMe and consequence, and I'm sure she would do it again in a heartbeat should the chance coMe again, because that's the kind of dog she is and that's what dogs do.

Mozaic, a Marvelous youth performance of aerial dance, directed by Joanna Haigood, at the Bolinas CoMMunity Center on Saturday, was another opportunity for faMilies to be out and about. The Bolinas Aerial Artists, ranging in ages from 7-11, choreographed and perforMed their own contributions to the show, and it was aMazing to see their creativity and fearless flying feats. They were joined by older youth groups -- Zaccho Youth Company, Dance in Flight, Wildchild Movement Collective -- froM other areas, with a variety of world themes, including some Capoeira, and African-Brazilian dance. Masterful.

Saturday night the delightful Coastal Scrubbers filled the house at Smiley's with raucous tunes bringing a western flavor to a final celebratory dancing opportunity before the deMolition and renovation/reModel starts in earnest at the bar.

A Mighty Marvelous, Multicultural, Month so far, brought to you today by the letter "M." Must pace yourself, More Month's May-hem to come. jp

Alethea Patton notes:

While I agree with Roderick Brown that his plan for removing "trash trees" is far superior to the "slash & squirt" methods of the lumber companies, I do not agree that Tan Oak and Madrone are "trash trees". This is the mindset and language of loggers. The Tan Oak tree is one of the most highly esteemed trees of the Pomo and other first nation peoples. The acorns produced by this tree are some of the best and a source of abundant food that we should all learn how to collect and process, since things aren't looking very good for "advanced civilization" these days. Black Trumpet mushrooms and many other delectable wild mushrooms are supported by these trees. Many forest animals depend on the acorns and berries as well. A whole systems approach needs to be developed for selective logging and forest fire management that values ALL of the life of the forest and the humans who interface with it, and this approach should include "food forest" thinking and not just "chop wood" thinking. Just my two cents. ♪

“ Growing old –

it's not nice, but it's interesting.

Persie Norton Johan August Strindberg (1849-1912) ”

Nature Notebook By Loretta Farley

The late-night sparklers, the Eta Aquarids, remain active through May 28, but will be drowned out by the full moon on May 18, which also brings extreme low tides in early mornings. Across North America, this moon has many names associated with flowering and planting, and many calendars suggest it is the best time to plant medicinal herbs for maximum potency.

Additional rains have spurred high grass growth this year, and as grasses begin drying out, we must remember that fire season is around the corner. The high growth can obscure some wildflower blooms, such as the smaller sky lupines and poppies. Bush lupines are blooming throughout the elk reserve and Pierce Point Road areas in yellows, lavenders and blues. Ceanothus shrubs are also having a banner year, their clouds of pale blue blossoms seen along the south end of the Estero Trail and Limantour Road.

Madrone or Manzanita? These two red-barked plants are often confused; madrones have curls of peeling bark while manzanita grows low (and has over 40 species in the state!). Madrone trees along Limantour Road have long sprays of ivory bells in flower; manzanitas have singular, pale pink bells.

Pt Reyes Light, 5/9/19

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- Mothers' Day pancake breakfast: as always, a merry, cacophonous feast. I had my year's quota of bacon.
- Coastal Scrubbers: their first bar gig was a huge success. Smiley's was a multi-generational melee.
- May Full Moon: maybe it's time to go back up on the mountain for a viewing/picnic supper.
