LOCAL BOOKSTORE CLOSED BY THIEF

Saturday, June 1, 2013 a little after 7:00 pm a thief with a coat over his head came into the bookstore from the back room and ripped the little metal donations safe from the wall. The thief can be identified on the video only by the pimple at the top of his butt crack and what possibly looks like a circular tattoo between his shoulder blades. He absconded through the storage room, out the window and into the patio, leaving the window open behind him. Do you recognize this poor, pitiful soul? His unflattering picture is plastered on the front door of the bookstore. If you know him, please tell me so I can talk with him. If you want to see the entire video of this sad and violent act, give me a call and I will arrange a viewing for you. It's on my cell phone, if you don't mind a small screen. 415-233-0029, or email me at harraff@mac.com and I will send you the youtube coordinates, or you can type in the following: <http://youtu.be/pZOT1C-2vio>

The bookstore will be closed in mourning for the sorry life of this pathetic human being and until I can get another lockbox (ordered from Amazon) which cost the bookstore $35.00 and is promised delivery by June 7 or 8. Sorry for the inconvenience.

--Ned Riley

Dear Bolinas & Stinson , former students extended family, friends, and community members, as well as all my homies. On Saturday June 29th 2013 at the Bolinas Community Center, you are all being INVITED TO DINNER. You see it has been 10, 20 , 30 or so some odd yrs. since many of us met. So much has happened within that time frame of our life's journey. As life has moved forward we have all seen many changes, and a growth in our families and kids. Community has always been important to me, as I watched our children grow I had a dream to one day call us all together and break bread, the time has come. Many of us are now happy and proud grandparents, uncle's and auntie's. Let's not forget the good friend's we have and good friend's we've lost along the way, part of life's journey, I would like to recognize all that we have lost as well on this day. So this is a call out for as many as possible to home have Dinner, shmooze and make this be a rememberable and historical event for our lovely community. This day is being called "IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR"2013.

This is the first of many more to come. If you know of anyone who has moved out of town and may not see this please pass it on. Arrangements are being made to be in contact with those who are out of the country, by using skype. A few Gazebo's will be set up for our newest arrivals and their parents.

A layout of the day will be as such

2:30 to 4:30 Burnt park, face painting, music for our younger children , and a all community art project.

5:30 will be an early Dinner for the younger children at the C.Center

6:30 Dinner for the Adults.

After Dinner there will be music for the party people by some of our local DJ'S until 12:00 am.

I'm asking each family to donate $5.00 to help w some of the cost plus a dish to share for four.

The main course for the day will be provided. Attention parents with small children when deciding on your dish, keep your kids in mind when preparing your dish with something you know they'll eat.

This is a NON-Alcohol event. Smiley's would love to have you drop by.

To help raise funds for next yrs. "IT'S A FAMILY AFFAIR DINNER, I'LL BE SELLING SOME OF MY NOTE CARDS CALLED "LOVE THE LIFE YOU LIVE" SERIOUS,

Looking forward to seeing many of you who will be able to make it to this yrs. Dinner

You can contact me @ 415-246-1187 or anthonystewart31@aol

If you are knowing that you'll be attending please give me the number in your family, this will give me an idea when calculating the amount of food.

Go to Health: Olive Oil & Your Brain, and a New View on Produce

Olive oil is known to have protective effects on bone, heart disease and breast cancer risk. Its use in the Mediterranean diet has been associated with a 30% lower risk of death from heart attacks and stroke in a recent Spanish study. Here's more!

In 2009, Researchers at Columbia University in New York found that elderly people who were physically active and ate a Mediterranean diet, had a 32-40% lower incidence of Alzheimer's disease (AD) compared with those who did not. The Mediterranean diet was defined as including a high consumption of vegetables, fruits, legumes, grains and fish, and a lower use of red meat. About 50 milliliters of olive oil (roughly 1/5th cup per day) is consumed.

Research into the lower amounts of dementia on this diet has found a compound in extra virgin olive oil called oleocanthal. Amal Kaddoumi and her colleagues at the University of Louisiana looked at whether oleocanthal helped to decrease the accumulation of beta-amyloid in the brain, as this substance is believed to be the culprit in AD. They applied different concentrations of oleocanthal to mouse brain cell cultures, and also gave oleocanthal to live mice. In both trials, levels of the two proteins that transport beta-amyloid out of the brain as well as enzymes that degrade beta-amyloid increased significantly. The researchers then introduced beta-amyloid into live mice brains. Compared with control groups, the mice given oleocanthal showed significantly enhanced clearance and degradation of the beta-amyloid peptides.

This study has exciting implications for the prevention of AD. While pharmacologists are figuring out how to make a medicine from oleocanthal, you can use extra-virgin olive oil as your main source of fat. Investigate how to make an oliveoil/herb spread for your bread. It is important to note that being physically active and eating a lot of fresh produce is also important to keep your brain healthy.

Breeding the Nutrition out of Food: Jo Robinson, an investigative reporter, is about to publish a book called Eating on the Wild Side. She notes that over the

TOMORROW IS VOTING DAY

Our school children in the Bolinas-Stinson school district need your support. The parcel tax that supports the outstanding educational programs we offer our children, including art, music, P.E., organic lunches, small class size, will be expiring in the coming school year. The financial setbacks that schools have had in the past five years of the State's budget crisis are only now starting to stabilize. We have been able to maintain our exceptional educational offerings through this time of major fiscal cutbacks because the two communities we serve have supported the school with a tax that is very modest by comparison to other Marin school districts' parcel taxes. We are requesting an increase for the first time in many years. PLEASE VOTE TOMORROW TO RENEW OUR SCHOOL PARCEL TAX AND THE $50 INCREASE.

The Board of Trustees is very appreciative of the support of our communities.
Thanks, Jennie Pfeiffer

last 10,000 years since we stopped foraging for wild plants and instituted farming and gardening, we have selected the least bitter plants to grow in our gardens. While this has made some foods tastier, it has decreased their phytonutrients. Robinson is not talking about genetic engineering, but conventional selective plant breeding which has gone on for millennia but has recently accelerated. She notes that purple Peruvian potatoes have vastly more nutrients than the white potato, and blue corn is greatly superior to white corn, even though white corn is sweeter and more popular. I will write more about her findings when I get her book. In the meantime, she suggests arugula, which is very similar to its wild ancestor, and scallions, which resemble wild onions. She suggests using plentiful amounts of fresh herbs in cooking. Rebecca Katz, author of The Cancer Fighting Kitchen and The Longevity Kitchen, also promotes the use of herbs as ingredients in many dishes, including salads. Don't overlook those amazing deep purple Japanese sweet potatoes at the People's Store. Go for color, and spiciness; you will be on the right track. Sadja Greenwood, MD back issues at sadjascolumns.blogspot.com

This Week: 3 EXCELLENT EVENTS FOR KIDS

1. Lisa Townsend's after school drama class performance of Hoodwinked on Wednesday in the Bolinas Community Center. The students did an amazing job with this funny updated version of Little Red Riding Hood. I love the work Lisa does bringing out the best in these budding Thespians.

2. Friday evening's annual school Art Show, with pre-show music by the band and chorus students of Bolinas-Stinson School, under direction of school master music teacher Anny Owen. I appreciated their good work, and also that the students were asked to sit with the audience and appreciate the talents of their classmates, rather than rip around and play on the basketball court. Nice respectful courtesy.

The art show was K-8th all art all the time, all over the Quesada, nicely organized by art shop staff and volunteers. If you missed it, you can still see it today and tomorrow while school is open, 8:30 until 3:00.

3. Baby blessing looked wonderful in today's Facebook photos. We were sad to miss it, due to our blessed baby being feverishly ill and in distress. She's feeling better today and I was happy to see so many postings of photos on line.

Press on Regardless, jenniefieffer

Also - love and healing thoughts going out to Jim Vest, suddenly in the hospital critically ill. There are collection cans in the downtown businesses so you can contribute if you have a little extra to give, as we hold Jim and Sandy in our hearts while he goes through chemo and radiation. jp
