THE PIRATES OF PENZANCE PRESENTED BY THE WEST MARIN PLAYERS

West Marin Players presents for it's third production, Gilbert & Sullivan's swashbuckling comedy The Pirates of Penzance. Wacky, irreverent, and as entertaining today as it was when it first opened in 1879. The Pirates Of Penzance is the story of an orphan boy who was mistakenly apprenticed to a pirate instead of a pilot. A hilarious farce featuring sentimental pirates, bumbling policemen, dewy-eyed daughters, and an eccentric Major General, and peppered with unforgettable melodies and tongue-twisting songs, Pirates is one of the most popular operettas ever written.

Go to Health: Just Label It

Last November the California campaign to label genetically modified organisms (GMOs) was defeated by a 51 to 48 percent vote. Many large companies and the Grocery Manufacturers Association put $46 million into fighting the proposition. $9.2 million was spent in support. Some people who buy brands like Cascadian Farm, Kashi, Horizon Organic, Muir Glen, and Odwalla were outraged last fall after learning the companies' corporate owners helped fund the effort to defeat Prop 37. However, efforts to label GMOs in food are still underway. Connecticut and Maine have passed labeling bills which will kick in when other states, including a neighboring state, pass similar laws. Whole Foods markets will require GMO labeling on any product it stocks by 2018. The U.S. Department of Agriculture for the first time approved a non-GMO label claim for meat products, Chipotle began voluntarily labeling menu items containing GMO ingredients online, and the Senate Appropriations Committee voted last week to give the U.S. Food and Drug Administration funding to label genetically modified salmon if the agency approves the fish.

GMO cotton, soybeans, canola and corn are modified to make them resistant to the herbicide glyphosate – otherwise known as Roundup, so that weeds could be killed without harming the crop. Most sugar beets are also genetically modified, although the final product is identical to the sugar from ordinary sugar beets. Unless it is labeled organic, almost all cotton, canola, soy and corn grown in the US today is GMO. The problem that has emerged is that weeds are becoming resistant to Roundup. More must be used, along with other herbicides. According to ScienceDaily, a website I respect, the annual increase in herbicides required to deal with tougher-to-control weeds on cropland planted to GE cultivars has grown from 1.5 million pounds in 1999 to about 90 million pounds in 2011. Initially, Roundup was considered a safe herbicide with short duration of action. However, a recent study from an Environmental Toxicology Program in Thailand, published in Food Chemistry Toxicology, indicates that Roundup may be an endocrine disruptor, inducing human breast cancer cells to grow by effecting estrogen receptors.

Another problem with GMO crops is the effect on adjacent farmers and organic farms. Pollen drift is a problem for farmers who plant non-GMO or organic crops. Farmers using GMO seeds are required by Monsanto and other companies to buy fresh seed every year. When GMO pollen blows into adjacent fields, and is harvested, the farmers can be sued for patent infringement. In one high-profile case (Monsanto Canada Inc. v. Schmeiser) the Monsanto Company sued Percy Schmeiser for patent infringement after he replanted canola seed that he had harvested from his field, which he discovered was contaminated with Monsanto's patented glyphosate-tolerant canola. The Supreme Court of Canada ruled that Schmeiser was in violation of Monsanto's patent because he knowingly replanted the resistant seed that he had harvested, but he was not required to pay Monsanto damages since he did not benefit financially from its presence. In 2008, Schmeiser and Monsanto Canada came to an out-of-court settlement whereby Monsanto would pay for the clean-up costs of the contamination, which came to a total of $660. In May of this year, the US Supreme Court ruled unanimously that an Indiana farmer had violated Monsanto's patent laws by saving Monsanto seed and replanting it. He was fined $84,000. On the other hand, a few weeks ago a three-judge panel at the Court of Appeals for the Federal Circuit has ruled that a group of organic and otherwise non-GMO farmer and seed company plaintiffs are not entitled to bring a lawsuit to protect themselves from Monsanto's transgenic seed patents "because Monsanto has made binding assurances that it will not take legal action against growers whose crops might inadvertently contain traces of Monsanto biotech genes (because, for example, some transgenic seed or pollen blew onto the grower's land)."

Farmers have saved seeds since the beginning of agriculture, and have thus been able to select the best plants for changing conditions, such as drought, heat, cold, etc. The conflict between traditional practices and patented GMO seed goes on in many parts of the world today – an unfinished story. More food will be needed to feed a world population growing upwards from 7 billion. Are GMO crops necessary? Stay tuned, and I will try to address this question. ## WATER CONSERVATION NEEDED NOW!!

PLEASE MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO REDUCE YOUR WATER CONSUMPTION IMMEDIATELY.

After several years of historically low water consumption in the district, we are beginning to see water use rising to alarming levels. During the most recent quarter, consumption rose to the highest level in six years. As we enter the summer season, it is critically important that all customers use their best efforts to reduce their water use immediately.

Please, reduce or eliminate your outdoor watering as soon as possible. Please turn off automatic irrigation systems and hand water only, preferably late in the day or early evening to reduce water loss due to evaporation. Make every effort to use your household appliances such as laundry machines and dishwashers only when you have full loads. Limit the length of showers to a few minutes. Check your toilets and faucets to make sure you do not have any leaks.

Thank you in advance for your conservation efforts. After an unusually dry winter, this water-scarce community will need to do its best to conserve water now to avoid mandatory rationing later in the year. Please call 868-1224 with any questions. Thank you!

Jennifer Blackman
General Manager

WHY DOES THE WATER TASTE AND SMELL FUNNY RIGHT NOW?

As we move into the heart of the summer months after a winter and spring with very little rainfall, we are turning to our emergency back-up sources of water – our Woodrat reservoirs – to supplement our water supply. (Please see our separate notice appealing to our customers for water conservation!) As the reservoir water enters our distribution system, many of our customers are noticing a taste and smell to the water. The taste and odor are a result of the different organic materials present in the stored water (as compared to our preferred water source, the Arroyo Hondo creek) and do NOT pose a health risk. You may also notice a slight discoloration; again, this does not pose a health risk. We likely will be using reservoir water to supplement our water supply until the rains begin again.

Please call 868-1224 with any questions. Thank you!

Cow-pools' forming now!

Reasons to buy our local grass fed beef:

- *Help support local Agriculture and 3rd generation ranchers. Our family has been ranching continuously in Bolinas since the early 1900's.
  - *Beef born and raised in Bolinas, lived the good life up on the Mesa. Stress free.
  - *Grass-fed (there may be an option to 'finish-off' with hay and grain)
  - *No antibiotics.
  - *Buying local allows you to understand your connection to the food chain and see exactly where your food comes from. You can meet your assigned animal if you'd like.
  - *Reduce carbon footprint.
  - *Support local spending.
- Cost is around $7.00 a lb
- Minimum Order $140 for 20 pounds

A MEMORABLE FLOAT, about twenty years ago featured a big old convertible (a Cadillac or Buick belching blue smoke and running on three or four of its eight cylinders) lumbering down the street, patriotically hung with bunting for the 4th of July parade, sporting a hand-lettered sign: “CAUTION! BLIND DRIVER.” I can’t remember the blind person’s name – I think his first name was Gordon – a local boy -- but I believe that he had recently become blind, and was living out his wish to drive this decorated gas-guzzler through the crowd as a personal statement of independence. Timmy Horvath was his co-pilot, sitting in the suicide seat, yelling out things like, “GO! STOP! LEFT! RIGHT! FASTER! SLOWER!” and screaming at whoever was in front of the car, “HEY! GET OUT OF THE WAY! CAN’T YOU SEE WE GOT A BLIND DRIVER HERE?”

I wonder where Gordon is now. And what about Timmy? Does anyone else remember? – Michael Rafferty

Goodbye Pay Phones?

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- (1) Bolinas' home-grown Independence Day celebration and street party.
- (2) The two rousing performances of 'Jugville,' the musical about early Bolinas. Thank you Molly Maguire.
- (3) Several inches of rain! In June!

--Ned Riley

Someone came in the People's Store reporting that our 2 pay phones downtown are being decommissioned. I went & checked, sure enough heard no dial tone at either.

Called (with my cell) the service provider "Pelican Communication Inc." but couldn't get a straight answer either way. Anyone know what's up?

The birthstone of July is the ruby, whose adage goes:

*The glowing Ruby shall adorn
Those who in warm July are born.
Then will they be exempt and free
From love's doubt and anxiety.*

Weather lore for July says that rain in the third hour of a July afternoon is the heaviest in the year. July 15 is St. Swithin's Day, a weather marker. A country weather rhyme for July is:

*A shower of rain in July, when the corn begins to fill,
Is worth a plough of oxen, and all belongs theretill.
In this month is Swithin's Day,
On which, if that rain, men say,
Full forty days after it will
For more or less some rain distil,
Till Swithin's Day is past and gone
There may be hops, or there may be none.*

Kalends of July

K A weather marker:

*If July the first be rainy weather,
It will rain for four more weeks together.*
