A Great Lesson on Stress

A young lady confidently walked around the room with a raised glass of water while leading a seminar and explaining stress management to her audience. Everyone knew she was going to ask the ultimate question, 'Half empty or half full?' She fooled them all. "How heavy is this glass of water?" she inquired with a smile.

Answers called out ranged from 8 oz. To 20 oz.

She replied, "The absolute weight doesn't matter. It depends on how long I hold it. If I hold it for a minute, that's not a problem. If I hold it for an hour, I'll have an ache in my right arm. If I hold it for a day, you'll have to call an ambulance. In each case it's the same weight, but the longer I hold it, the heavier it becomes. She continued, "And that's the way it is with stress. If we carry our burdens all the time, sooner or later, as the burden becomes increasingly heavy, we won't be able to carry on." As with the glass of water, you have to put it down for a while and rest before holding it again. When we're refreshed, we can carry on with the burden - holding stress longer and better each time practiced.

So, as early in the evening as you can, put all your burdens down. Don't carry them through the evening and into the night. Pick them up again tomorrow if you must.

- Accept the fact that some days you're the pigeon, and some days you're the statue!
- Always keep your words soft and sweet, just in case you have to eat them.
- If you can't be kind at least have the decency to be vague.
- Never put both feet in your mouth at the same time, because then you won't have a leg to stand on.
- Nobody cares if you can't dance well. Just get up and dance.
- If you lend someone $20 and never see that person again, it was probably worth it.
- It may be that your sole purpose in life is simply to serve as a warning to others.
- We could learn a lot from crayons. Some are sharp, some are pretty, and some are dull. Some have weird names and all are different colors, but they all have to live in the same box.

WEEKLY WRAP & RECAP 8/5/13
From Jenniepfeiffer Riley

It was a mighty fine music playing day for me Saturday in Pt. Reyes Station at the Farmer's market, along with my sweetie Ned Riley, and the group we've been playing with for over a decade, Midnight On the Water. When we got there, a little before 10:00 am, there was a Flash Mob in progress. In case you haven't seen one of these on Utube, that's a performance event that starts in a public place with nothing, then one person singing (or dancing, etc.) and then a passerby joins in, and then another, and before you know it, there's a whole orchestra or chorus, or dance troupe performing right there at the train station, or airport, or, as in this case, the Farmer's Market. It was organized by Rhiannon, a capella vocalist, famous in her own back yard of West Marin and way beyond, who started out with musical word play and drew her chorus in one by one from around the market, and soon there was a full on production. It was fun to see. I hear it was captured for viewing later on the internet somewhere. I'll look for it.

On the way back to Bolinas, I was part of an interesting conversation regarding the farming being done up on the sewer pond land. I have very high regard for the Murch family of farmers and artists, and had the pleasure of teaching Mickey Murch years ago when I was teaching in the wood shop at Bolinas-Stinson School. I love the energy and imagination Mickey has brought back into town from his time in the world of higher education, learning how to mingle art and agriculture. He and his growing family have taken on the Murch farm, owned many years by his parents. They have provided us with the 24/7 farmstand and music/art gallery space, and some refreshing outside the box moveable feast experiences.

With this background, I trust that what he intends to do on the Water District land has the best of intention. There is, however, the fact that this is Community Public Land, and has a mystical, magical quality to it for many community members who are thinking this is a private business intrusion on public space. I think there is a way to combine the two points of view, but it takes a sitting down and brainstorming sort of conversation, which I'm thinking is happening now. We need to pay attention so to avoid what's happening at the Pt. Reyes National Seashore with the Oyster Farm. When I see signs around that say "Save Our Oyster Farm", I think about how that's not really "our" oyster farm, that's a private business, but it is our park land, so we need to be at the table to have conversation about how to blend the two concepts. I love oysters, and that's been a boon to have in the area to provide oysters, but we need to find a way to perhaps have the Lunny's continue to manage the oysters in the ecological way they have been, but keep the ownership in the hands of the public. Those farms that are "grandfathered" in on park land, still have the reservation that the land will revert eventually to the public. That's what was supposed to happen to this oyster farm. I see a similarity between what is happening in Bolinas, and the Lunny's venture in Tomales Bay. It can't be personal about good guys/bad

UPDATE – PAVING SCHEDULE FOR BOLINAS (WHARF, OLEMA-BOLINAS AND HORSESHOE HILL ROADS)!!

The County's Department of Public Works has advised us that its contractor, Ghilotti Brothers, will begin the paving project in Bolinas on Monday, September 9, 2013. The paving will begin at the end of Wharf Road (which will take approximately three days), and will proceed out Olema-Bolinas Road and Horseshoe Hill Road. The total time estimated for digouts, grinding and paving in Bolinas is approximately two weeks.

guys, but it needs to include all of us. The Murch family is very ready to sit down with the community and the BCPUD Board, and look at how this can work without negatively impacting the natural habitat of wildlife, and without the members of the community losing control of our public space.

The difficulties I see with the Lunny oyster controversy, are one, the Park's perceived need to report faulty, outdated science to defend their position; and two, more importantly for me, the need for the Lunny's to bring in money from the Pacific Legal Foundation. The PLF is the very organization brought the lawsuit against the Bolinas water moratorium - the BCPUD and all the individuals who held positions on that board as well as the Bolinas Planning committee. It was devastating to many members of our town. Our own family was a defendant in that lawsuit. Our town's water bills included a line item for years to pay the District legal fees, even though we were victorious.

So these are thoughts I am having. I see the need for a round table discussion to find a way to keep the oysters, keep the farms, yet maintain the habitat and keep public lands in public hands, with some money going back to help with park upkeep.

On an other matter, happy to report that Jim Vest is back in town. If you are a maker of meals, the family could use you. Contact Molly Maguire. All Best to the Vests, jp

Three vendors' tents were wrecked by the powerful dust devil.

Mini-tornado disrupts Far West Fest

By Peggy Day

Far West Fest opened at noon Saturday. The usual night and morning low clouds hung around until 10 after. The well-defined border of fog above burned back to warm, blue skies. The perfect set up for a dust devil.

Suddenly a severe crosswind shoved aside the morning's damp, replacing it with a tropical balm that created a 50 to 100 foot high twister. An ominous cloud of spinning dust, orange dirt, swirling papers, vendors' tents and cardboard signs spun. Faces filled with panic and indecision, singly purposed parents ran to protect children. Flying objects included a cara table and three vendors' tents. Determinedly pushing itself up and spinning around, the wind swirled clothes, hats, and papers. Hands grabbed for escaping lamps, cash boxes and bags. Parents threw their bodies over children. Other parents ran to find their own. Wild vendor canopies took flight then crashed as gnarled skeletons.

The floating spinning vortex then began to crawl away from the three tousel booths, twisted over second base, threw its airborne flotsam as it rounded third. As it careened away from home base it lingered over the porta-potties and, as fast as it arrived, dissolved.

Three beautifully displayed booths were now festival midden. Bystanders ran to help, checking for injuries – amazingly: none. Order was carefully restored. The crumpled, gnarled canopies were replaced. Flown earrings were later found in distant grass. Inventories returned to proper owners. Nerves slowly unwound.

Not big enough to qualify as a "tornado," what weather experts call a dust devil can be up to 1000 meters high. Common names include sand auger, dust whirl, dancing devil, whirly-whirly, or twister. Scientists list a dust devil's ingredients:

- Flat barren terrain, desert or tarmac
- Clear skies or lightly cloudy conditions.
- Light or no wind and cool atmospheric temperature.

Suddenly, Kansas doesn't seem so far away.

Music festival hits home

Dear Editor,

Our beloved homegrown Far West Fest delivered a delightful experience yet again, thanks to the expertise of producer Jim Pettigrew and the vast team of skilled and dedicated professionals and volunteers that it takes to make a success of such a complex undertaking.

The fog lifted around noon into a dazzling, balmy afternoon of musical delights and yummy food, punctuated by a mini-tornado that sent posters and leaflets soaring into the blue.

A special gift for me from such an event is the discovery of a great band. The Sam Chase topped my chart, with Sam's raw and powerful lyrics about life's struggles and joys delivered with a gravelly edge and a hard-driving, harmonically rich five-piece band. Later, on the Youth Stage, Matt Jaffe dazzled his enthusiastic audience with a vibrant presence, finely crafted vocal phrasing and intricate guitar work seldom heard from someone just out of high school. Keep an eye on this guy.

Finishing the day off with a bang was Lebo & Friends, with their rich, danceable soul music that they just kept cranking out until finally they had to wind up so there was still daylight for cleanup.

It's going to be hard to beat this lineup, but I'm getting next year's ticket early.

This email is an invitation to be a part of a West Marin community meeting focusing on the needs of West Marin.

in regards to Mental Health and Substance Abuse Services.

In coordination with the Marin County Division of Mental Health and Substance Use Services (MHSUS), a community meeting is being held at the Dance Palace on August 13, 2013 @ 6:30 p.m. to gather feedback about the implementation of the Mental Health Services Act (MHSA) in West Marin. (The three year budget cycle starts July 1, 2014 through June 30, 2017). This meeting is an important step in the budget process as required by the Mental Health Services Act and the goal is to provide a vision for integrated services plan in collaboration with the West Marin community. This meeting is one of a series which are taking place across Marin to gather input and recommendations for the delivery of mental health and substance use services, ranging from Prevention, to Early Intervention, to Treatment and Recovery.

The Mental Health Services Act is intended to address the needs of communities that are currently underserved, of which West Marin has been identified. This community meeting will focus on the following service/programmatic questions:

West Marin would like more...

West Marin needs different..

West Marin deserves....

Please see the attached flyer in both English and Spanish – Please plan to attend the meeting to express the needs you see in the community, and your ideas for future program development. Refreshments, child care and transportation will be provided.

Also, please pass this flyer along to anyone/everyone in your agency and your circle of community members.

I have also attached a few other MHSUS documents which outline the Vision of Integrated Care.

If you can't attend the meeting PLEASE provide your input via our online survey at:
http://www.co.marin.ca.us/depts/HH/main/mh/mhsa_faq.cfm

Feel free to call me with any questions. Thanks!

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- (1) Two (or was it three?) bright mornings. Maybe Faugust will be over early.
- (2) Perfume in the kitchen: an orange-flesh honeydew melon, and a fresh basil plant from Trader Joe's.
- (3) This weekend was Lughnasadh, the Celtic harvest festival in early August, signifying the half-way point between the summer solstice and fall equinox—how appropriate that we're being flooded with produce.

WOMEN'S BIKE

I would like a light-weight woman's bike (28/30). Simple, not fancy, a few speeds. Pat Dickens - 2446 - Thank you!

St. Oswald/Celtic tree month of Coll commences

Coll, the hazel, is symbolic of wisdom and druidry. It signifies the art of regeneration through the use of words, the power of meditation, and—through its use by water dowisers—divination of hidden or lost things.

Tan

The Tan Hill festival commemorates the personified Celtic holy fire, Teinne or Tan. A festival related to Lamma, it takes place two days after the end of the Celtic tree month of Tinne.
