WHAT HAPPENED
3-29-2021 Monday Morning Recap and Gratitude Spotlight
From Jenniepeiffer

It was a full, marvellous-moon-over-the-mountain weekend, a perfect time to head to our "secret" sunset/moonrise view spot that has become one of the Bay Area's Best worst kept secret ways to celebrate the full moon. This moon of many names (Worm/Crust/Sugar/Sap/Crow/Eagle/Goose) did not disappoint. Parking was over capacity and we shared the experience with so many who were ready to break out of hibernation and do a last "howl" on the anniversary those first "howls" of despair/thanks to first responders a year ago.

I was lucky enough to catch this exquisite moon on the down side as well, waking me as it did early this morning, shining perfectly through my window. As I watched it disappear into the trees, I thought of nature’s balance, and the strong lunar pull, not only of the tides but also of emotions, energies, and the births and deaths that appear to be associated with the full moon. One such sad loss this week was the death of Allan Merrynus, Stinson Beach, and Allan’s family, love and condolences go out to Jeff Graham and Allan’s many friends.

Other thoughts of nature’s balance, the ups and downs, especially in this time of COVID, bring me to this week’s new household addition, Osita, Spanish for Little Bear. She and her MaltiPoo sister helped a family with three kids needing loving distraction get through their many household months. With school reopening and parents returning to work, the sad realization that these dogs needed more attention crept in and they put out a search for new homes for their pups. This family’s “down” became our “up” as Osita fills the emptiness in our hearts left by the loss of MsKitty. Thanks to Cheryl of MaltiPoo to broker this love connection, and a shine of the Gratitude Spotlight go to them, founders of Loves Dogs for Life, a non-profit now taking a hiatus in this pandemic, but one that has done so very much for many years to help our local pets lovers through difficult times. I hope this much needed non-profit can find its way back to us.

More balance lessons learned in this triple threat year of pandemic, fire outbreaks from continued low rainfall, and that relationship to the global climate crisis, included the need for land stewardship, crucial for the safety of our communities. The fire disasters are balanced by new growth that spring from scarred earth and ashes. That same renewal of native, can be seen where conservation practices, practices going back to the Miwok first stewards of this land, have been allowed to take place. The beauty of the tall eucalyptus, have their downside of deadly falling limbs and fire danger. Where they have been removed on public lands, native habitat has returned in a beautiful way. The limited exit roads in our town need to be kept safe to allow egress in times of fire, floods, earthquakes, and tsunami. There will still be many eucalyptus stands remaining to be enjoyed. And for those worried about the monarchs, here is good news: some of our third graders at Bolinas-Stinson school are working with teacher Anna Tosiuck, along with Audrey Fusco of Turtle Island Restoration Network; and a former BSUSD graduate, Claudia Buckenmeyer of PRNSA, to create our very own pollinator garden on the Bolinas Campus. Here are some third grader comments, "Now our butterflies have native nectar plants that aren't milkweed to help them survive (we learned we shouldn't plant milkweed in this area)"; "I like that we are helping all the pollinator animals, including hummingbirds"; "This activity is bringing us all together to help the world!"

These are all good lessons to remember as we get our coronavirus vaccinations and start moving cautiously back out into the world. I was so happy to get my second jab this week, along with so many at the Marin Civic Center feeling the weight of these past 12 months start to lift. Separation has been more than physical. It's been mental/spiritual/psychological as well, and we can carry what we've learned into planning for addressing issues before us in the future: climate change, water (potable and waste), food production, housing – all needs that require a balance in planning. I encourage us to come together as community to discuss all the ways decisions of individuals and organizations affect us all as we press on regardless. Springtime, Easter, Passover greetings all around. JP

THREE GREAT THINGS ABOUT THIS PLACE...

- You’ll remember how great I thought it was that all those doggies were being adopted during the covid lockdown. It was, but now brace for the flood of urgent rescue pleas as people go back to work and school and pets are...difficult. We’ve responded to one such, and a lovely maltipoo named Little Bear ("Osita"), has joined our household.

- Both being vaccinated, my music buddy Mike and I decided it was safe to resume playing tunes together. What a joy to be back on the deck in the sunshine sending music into the air. Now, if we can get the Vladimir’s session going again...

- Easter week--from yesterday’s Palm Sunday to Easter--is a special time of year even for us pagans. We can’t not be awestruck by the vitality being released all around, ‘the force that through the green fuse drives the flower...’ (Dylan Thomas). We are all being resurrected.

Cheers,
Ned Riley

Clair De Lune

Your soul is as a moonlit landscape fair,
Peopled with maskers delicate and dim,
That play on lutes and dance and have an air
Of being sad in their fantastic trim.

The while they celebrate in minor strain
Triumphant love, effective enterprise,
They have an air of knowing all is vain,-

And through the quiet moonlight their songs rise

The melancholy moonlight, sweet and lone,
That makes to dream the birds upon the tree,
And in their polished basins of white stone
The fountains tall to sob with ecstasy.

A Marriage

We met
under a shower
of bird-notes.
Fifty years passed,
love's moment
in a world in servitude to time.
She was young;
I kissed with my eyes
closed and opened
them on her wrinkles.
'Come,' said death,
choosing her as his partner for the last dance, And she,
who in life
had done everything
with a bird's grace,
opened her bill now
for the shedding
of one sigh no
heavier than a feather.

- Intentionally and publicly excludes or segregates a group of people
- Intentionally and publicly enforces the status quo throughout its history
- Usually non-similar intentional policies and practices toward other socially oppressed groups, such as women, disabled, elderly and children, lesbians and gays, Third World citizens, etc.

Tolerant of differences
- Tolerant of a limited number of a marginalized group if they have "proper" perspective and credentials
- May still severely limit or exclude members of marginalized groups in contradiction to public policies
- Continues to intentionally maintain established power and privilege through its formal policies and practices, teachings and decision-making on all levels of institutional life
- Often declares, "We don't have a problem.

Intensively anti-biased
- Grows understanding of bias as barrier to effective inclusion
- Develops analysis of systemic bias
- Sponsoring programs of anti-bias training
- Realizes consequences of institutionalized power and privilege
- Develops institutional identity as an "anti-biased" institution
- Begins to develop accountability to oppressed communities
- Increasing commitment to dismantle bias and eliminate inherent privilege

Fully inclusive
- Committed to process of intentional institutional restructuring, based on anti-biased analysis and identity
- Audits and restructuring all aspects of institutional life to ensure full participation of all people, including their workplace, culture and lifestyles
- Implement structures, policies and practices with inclusive decision-making and other forms of power sharing on all levels of the institution's life and work
- Committed to struggle to dismantle bias in the wider community, and builds clear lines of accountability to oppressed communities
- Anti-biased multicultural diversity becomes an institutionalized asset
- Redefines and re-builds all relationships and activities in society, based on anti-biased commitments

PRINCIPAL’S MESSAGE, MARCH 23, 2021

MAR 23, 2021

NEW BSUSD POLLINATOR GARDEN!

What do you do with seventy five yards of soil left over from the construction of our outdoor learning spaces? Turn it into a pollinator garden! Our third grade class is working with Audrey Fusco of Turtle Island Restoration Network and a former BSUSD graduate, Claudia Buckenmeyer of PRNSA, to create our very own BSUSD pollinator garden. This creative and environmentally conscious solution is the brainchild of Anma Tosick, our 3rd grade teacher.

Anna, Audrey, Claudia, and Ben walked our Bolinas Campus looking for the perfect site for the pollinator garden and decided to use the berm of soil left over from the construction of our recent outdoor learning areas. Students and staff pitched in to move seventeen yards of compost, and plant upwards of fifty donated native pollinator plants (more will be arriving in April)! When I asked our third graders to share how they were feeling, here are some of their responses:

- I’m really happy that we’re helping. I feel joyful!
- Now our butterflies have native nectar plants that aren’t milkweed to help them survive (we learned we shouldn’t plant milkweed in this area).
- I’m excited to see if the number of monarch butterflies goes up.
- I like that we are helping all the pollinator animals, including hummingbirds!
- This activity is bringing us all together to help the world!

Stay tuned for more updates as our students make a difference and beautify our school in such a magical way!
