Gushing Woman to Burning Man

by Stuart

Hard to believe that I'm actually going to Burning Man this year. I've always been involved with the Labor Day festivities in Bolinas and avoided going to the dusty desert to burn things. I even started an alternative festival here in Bolinas called Gushing Woman. But this year is different, and I'm taking the blue effigy of Gushing Woman to Burning Man. Here's the story of how it began:

Gushing Woman started in the summer of 2007 at Bill Braasch's birthday party. I was in a festive mood. I had been playing guitar and singing birthday songs.

"It's your birthday.." I told Bill. "I'm gonna gush all over you." meaning that I was going to continue to sugar coat him with music and verse.

Soon afterwards a friend told me that she had just bought her ticket for Burning Man?

"Burning Man, going to the desert to burn things?" I said. "I think I'm going to stay here in Bolinas on the beach and celebrate the ocean, water and renewal rather than fire and the apocalypse."

"Besides," I was verging on a rant. "With the recent understanding of global warming I think burning fossil fuels and the automobile culture are over. I wonder what the carbon footprint of Burning Man is?" and then I added, "Everyone will walk, kayak or bicycle to my festival."

"What festival is that?" my friend inquired. "Are you planning a riposte to Burning Man?"

"Uh, kinda. It's called . . ." I thought quickly. "Gushing Woman." I blurted out. "The festival's called Gushing Woman, and we will honor water instead of fire on RCA Beach instead of Black Rock Desert."

The next morning I whipped up a poster advertising the event. I shrunk a copy and put it in Friday's Hearsay News. On Monday I received a call from Michael Rafferty at Commonweal.

"StuArt, are you the organizer of the Gushing Woman event?" he asked. "I could tell by the way you drew the exploding sweat beads on the poster." Michael got right to the point. "We're hosting a group of meditators

LIVING POTENTIAL

SHARING YOUR GIFTS WITH OTHERS

The gifts we are born with and those we work to develop throughout our lives vary in form and function. Some we find use for every day, while others are only of value in specific circumstances. Many times we overlook opportunities to share our unique gifts with others. It may be fear of criticism that holds us back or the paralyzing weight of uncertainty. Ultimately, we doubt that our innate talents and practiced skills can truly add to others' lives, but it is the world as a whole that benefits when we willingly share our gifts.

Whether you have been blessed with the ability to awaken beautiful emotions in others through art or industry or your aptitudes transmit more practical advantages, your gifts are a part of who you are. As you make use of them as best you can, be assured that your contribution to global well-being will not be overlooked.

Your personal power is defined in part by your gifts. To use your talents is to demonstrate to the world that you understand yourself and are truly attuned to your capabilities. Your earthly existence provides you with ample opportunity to explore your purpose, to utilize your skills in a life-affirming way, and to positively touch the lives of others while doing so. You may feel that your gifts are not as valuable or worthy of attention as those of others, and hide them away. However, every one that's lying dormant in your soul has the potential to fill a void in someone else's life. Just as your existence is made richer by the love, support, friendship, aid, and compassion of others, so, too, can you add richness to their lives. Your natural ability to soothe hurt, inspire compassion, bake, dance, knit, organize, or think outside the box can be a boon to someone in need.

As you embrace your gifts and allow their light to shine, you will discover that more and more opportunities to make use of them arise. This is because your gifts are a channel through which the universe operates. By simply doing what you are good at and love to do, you make a positive difference. The recognition you receive for your efforts will pale in comparison to the satisfaction you feel when fulfilling your innate potential.

MADISYN TAYLOR

Magi & StuArt have put together a FINE roster of entertainment for the Labor Day festivities on September 2nd, which includes both well-known, established musicians and also new up-coming ones like Chelsea Meyer, an 18 yr. old singer, song writer!

This is the day that we HONOR all the hard-working people in our Community and also in our Nation! It is a BENEFIT for our own Bolinas Community Center. This is also the day we celebrate our towns' Mutual Creative Spirit with GREAT Music, Song, Food, Auction & Dancing! We have SO MUCH TALENT in our small town, it is both WONDERFUL as well as AMAZING! There will be TWO stages: Local bands will be on the street in front of the Bo C.C., Starting at 12:00 noon & beginning with Charlie & his all-time favorite band, 'Just Friends'. The other place will be the deck-stage in front of the Plaza Co-op, starting at 1:00 PM. There will be so much GOOD FOOD & DRINK, please plan to come & PARTY with us at lunchtime!

GRO's 15th Annual BOX SHOW is closing September 8, 2013

Every time I tell you about the box show you say I really want to see that and then it goes by. September 8th the show closes with a wild, amazing, live auction of the boxes that people want to fight over. The party is 3 to 4pm and the live auction is at 4 but really try to show before it's over so no regrets. There are some incredible boxes some people have spent a month locked in the room working on their box to donate it to this benefit for GRO and its programs.

that weekend and we're concerned about a bunch of people tramping through the area on the way to RCA Beach."

"I hear you." I answered. I wondered if the Gushing Woman Festival might already be getting too big and out of hand. I imagined hundreds of blissed out Gushers mobbing the beach. I wanted to avoid any problems.

"Gushing Woman is a celebration of water and the watercourse way." I explained. "We'll just flow to Brighton Beach closer to town, where it will be easier for elders and children to attend."

I realized that as promoter of Gushing Woman it was my job to gather the appropriate symbols and rituals for the event. When I invited Karen, she asked me what she should bring. I told her I didn't really know.

"I have apples." she said. "I'll bring apples."

I immediately pictured a beautiful sharing ritual around apples. The apple was a perfect symbol for Gushing Woman and the abundant universe. After all one could count the number of seeds in an apple, but how about the number of apples in an apple seed?

I did an Instant I-Ching reading on the Festival. (that's when I open a book at random and read a line.) The book was "Lazy Man's Guide to Enlightenment" by Thaddeus Golas. I opened the book and looked. "No Resistance" is what it said. "No resistance here below." I thought.

That Saturday before Labor Day the first Gushing Woman Festival took place. Everything about the event seemed appropriate and full of meaning. A small group gathered at noon on Brighton Beach. We held hands in a circle around the blue Gushing Woman effigy I constructed out of plywood. We chanted, sang, danced and prayed together. I passed around the circle with the "Bliss Mister," a spray bottle filled with fresh, blessed Bolinas tap water, and sprayed everyone's upturned face with a delicate mist of bliss.

Jennifer at Commonweal had given me a Kleenex box cover as consolation for moving the festival off of RCA Beach. The top of the box was a molded Easter Island statue. Tissues were dispensed through the nose of the statue. I decided to incorporate the Easter Island box cover as a ritual object. I went around the circle a second time with the box of Kleenex and had everyone draw a tissue from the nostrils. Then we waved our tissues in the air like white flags and shouted, "We surrender to the bliss." It was a wonderful moment and I could feel the bliss gushing down on us all.

By that time the tide was rapidly rising We moved the Gushing Woman effigy to higher ground, but soon the foamy ocean was once again swirling around our feet. I brought a watermelon to share with my fellow Gushers. I found the watermelon to be another great symbol of the abundant universe. But this watermelon was on the verge of over ripeness and when I cut into it with my pocketknife a torrent of watermelon juice gushed out. Ocean foam and watermelon juice gushed together.

I finally understood how Gushing Woman is a celebration of water. Water is the Sacred Feminine, call Her Gushing Woman or call Her Goddess. Water has consciousness that transcends human mind. Consciousness and water are the same. Sparkling is a good word to describe the consciousness of water.

The consciousness of water is, after all, the same as the consciousness of Life on this planet, a blue-green, watery sphere floating and flowing in the vast ocean of the universe.

*Gushing Woman, let it flow,
No resistance, here below.
Lovelight falling, on us all,
Gushing Woman, waterfall.*

*Gushing Woman, let it be.
There's enough. for you and me.
Move your body, clap your hands,
