MOON IN SCORPIO

OF LOCAL NOTE

* The BCPUD voted last Wednesday night to halt the growing number of busses in town by charging higher rates for multiple hook-ups. They also voted to lower existing rates from $20.00 to $14.00 every two months for people who use under 1000 cubic feet of water. There's another meeting tonight.

* There have been no fire calls this month.

* Last week, at the beginning of the gas crisis, someone tried to siphon Bill Rafferty's gas tank. His dog, Tut, drove them away, but not before they stole his gas cap.

* Mel Bostock and his wife were out of town during the recent big storm and didn't see one of their windows blow in. Luckily, a good neighbor did, and fixed it before mel got back.

BAD NEWS

A mesa resident was trying to eat his breakfast when he looked out the window and saw a goat eating his pine tree. He put on his pants and ran outside and yelled at the goat. But the goat ran into the man's house and pissed on the rug and shit in the bedroom. The man got a broom and chased the goat back outside and through the broken fence, which it took several attempts to fix right, which it still isn't.

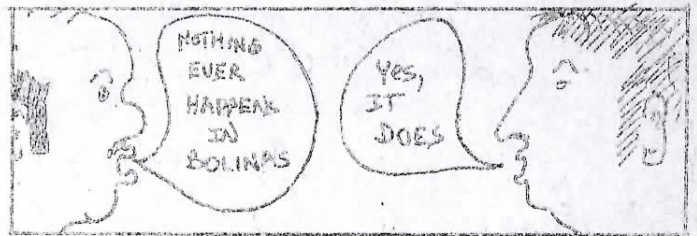

SILLY SPANGLER FELL OFF A DESK AT school while watching a movie and broke his left arm. Lots of other people seem to have broken bones lately, too.

OVER THE HILL

* The City of San Francisco is dumping 20 million gallons of raw sewerage into the bay daily. The health hazard has closed beaches all over the bay area.

* Mr. Moon found a book about Lennie Bruce at the Salvation Army, and it had Arthur Okamura's name in it. Arthur doesn't know how it got there.

* Gasoline is 60¢ a gallon in Iowa, but plentiful.

THE BOLINAS DAILY HEARSAY NEWS will be published irregularly at first (probably Monday, Wednesday, and Friday) until we have enough news to issue it daily. If you have news, call 868-1497 or tell Janet Peacock or Michael Rafferty.

FACTS

* There are 688 tires in Bolinas lagoon

* There are as many dogs in Bolinas as there are houses, and one and a half times as many cats.

RECIPE

OYSTERS OVER RICE

for two.

Fry one jar of oysters in butter until the edges curl. Add one heaping teaspoon chicken stock base (or 3 bullion cubes), some pepper, 1 tsp soy sauce, and 1/2 tsp sweet basil. Stir. Add 1 cup white wine. Turn heat down and simmer until it no longer smells like wine (about 10 minutes). Thicken with 2 egg yolks. Serve over rice.

Dear Mr. Warshall:

Your letter of January 24, 1974, requesting use of a room in the manse, now rented to the Bolinas Highlands Clinic, was presented to the session of the Church at the monthly meeting today.

After discussion it was decided that the Church should not make a room in the manse available for a Communications Center.

Reverend Gene Burris, our present minister, has been called to another Church. Consequently the Church is seeking a replacement for Mr. Burris.

It is quite possible that the minister who will fill the pulpit would like to live in the manse.

Sincerely,
 C. Jackson Napier, clerk

SPORTS

by Roy Buckman

Basketball is spelled UCLA and again as in the last 12 years the Bruins from smogsville will be the odds-on favorite to win the national title despite 3 mid-season defeats to inferior teams, all due to a back injury to the great and very humanistic center, Bill Walton.
